

$5,000 Liberty Mutual Prize Call for Scholarly Papers

Boston College Law School is soliciting papers for the 2013–2014 Liberty Mutual Prize, awarded each year for an exceptional article written during the submission season on the law of property and casualty insurance, its regulation and corporate governance.

Prize: Liberty Mutual Insurance Group created this competition to encourage and recognize legal scholarship in the area of property and casualty insurance law. The winning entrant will receive $5,000. If not already committed to another journal, the prize winning paper will also receive an offer of publication from the Boston College Law Review. (Receipt of the prize does not obligate the author to publish with the Review, however. Past recipients have published in the University of Pennsylvania Law Review, the University of Chicago Law Review, the William and Mary Law Review and the Michigan Law Review.)

Eligibility: Authors should possess a J.D. degree or its overseas equivalent. Papers must concern the law related to property and casualty insurance, its regulation and corporate governance. The prize is not intended to advance scholarship in areas such as life, health, employment or employee benefits insurance law.

Judging: Each entry will be judged by a panel of professors and attorneys having particular expertise in the insurance law field, including the eventual holder of the Liberty Mutual Professorship at Boston College Law School. The panel will evaluate submissions on the basis of quality of analysis, originality, thoroughness of research, creativity, and clarity of thought and expression.

Format: Submissions should be approximately 25,000 words in length (the equivalent of 50 law review pages) including text and footnotes, and contain an abstract of roughly 350 words. The article should conform to the Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (19th ed. 2010). Please submit in Word or PDF format, either by direct email or through Scholastica (<https://scholasticahq.com/>). Hard copy submission by mail is also acceptable.

For electronic submissions: (preferred)

LibertyMutualPrize@bc.edu ; or

<https://scholasticahq.com/>

For mailed submissions:

Boston College Law Review

Attn: Liberty Mutual Competition

885 Centre Street

Newton Centre, MA 02459

Deadline: Papers may be submitted throughout the year, but by no later than February 1, 2014. If an outstanding submission meets the foregoing conditions, the judges will announce a winning entry by March 3, 2014.

Presentation: The author of the selected paper will be invited to present it at a special program held at Boston College Law School, at which time a representative of Liberty Mutual will present the prize money.

Inquiries: Contact John Gordon: gordonjo@bc.edu or 617-552-8557.