Course Number: HON 409-01
Course Title: Hermes Unbound: Divining Hermeneutics
Credits: 3
Classroom: DeMille 146
Time: TTH 11:30-12:45 p.m.

Prerequisite: Formal acceptance into the University Honors Program

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Reflections on Hermes, the messenger of the Greek gods, gave rise to hermeneutike, the art of interpretation. This art of interpretation, hermeneutics, is the discipline arising from reflection on the problems involved in the transmission of meaning from text or symbol to reader or hearer, and it centers on the understanding of understanding. This course will survey reflections on these problems from ancient times to our own. (Offered as needed.) 3 credits.

RESTRICTIONS

For students formally admitted into the University Honors Program, or by permission of course instructor and Director of Honors

LEARNING OUTCOMES

1. Program Learning Outcomes
   a. Obtain a starting point for integrative exploration of the development of cultures and intellectual achievements through a variety of disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives;
   b. Sharpen the ability to critically analyze and synthesize a broad range of knowledge through the study of primary texts and the encouragement of active learning with fellow students, faculty, and texts (broadly understood);
   c. Understand how to apply more integrative and interdisciplinary forms of understanding as they engage advances in knowledge and deal with dramatic challenges shaping the world;
   d. Develop effective communication skills, specifically in the areas of written and oral exposition and analysis.
2. Course Learning Outcomes
   a. Understand the history of thought in which hermeneutics was transformed from the study and collection of specialized rules of interpretation to that of a philosophical discipline and general theory of the social and human sciences – PLO a, b, & c; GE 7SI.
   b. Critically appreciate some of the important ideas and issues raised by writers of the hermeneutic tradition – PLO b: GE 7SI.
   c. Sharpened ability to see, accept, and understand meanings found in diverse cultures and, in the process, understand oneself better – PLO c; GE 7VI.

3. GE Learning Outcome
   a. 7SI/Social Inquiry: Provides students an opportunity to explore processes by which human beings develop social and/or historical perspectives. Through GE 7SI students will be able to identify, frame and analyze social and/or historical structures and institutions in the world today.
   b. 7VI/Values/Ethical Inquiry: Provides students an opportunity to explore values and ethical perspectives in humanistic, aesthetic, religious, and/or philosophical contexts. Through GE 7VI students will be able to articulate how values and ethics inform human understanding, structures, and behavior.

CONTENT

1. The basic assumption in this course is that hermeneutics is not just a contemporary theory but also a long historical conversation about understanding and interpretation which predates the beginning of writing. In the course we will study the works of writers who have made significant contributions to that conversation. These writers have had a profound impact on contemporary philosophical and theological discourse and have helped shape new modes of interpretation in the social sciences.

2. This course enables students to study some of the principal texts of the mainstream of the hermeneutic tradition. These texts were written by members of different disciplines and fields of inquiry – philosophers, historians, theologians, and social scientists. Students interested in any of these fields will gain a greater appreciation for the contemporary relevance of hermeneutics as the general theory and method of interpretation as well as philosophical hermeneutics or philosophy of culture.

INSTRUCTIONAL STRATEGIES

1. The class will be seminar. Sometimes mini-lectures will be to establish the context and theoretical framework of our readings so as to enhance seminar conversations.

2. Students are expected to arrive at their own conclusions about issues discussed, to be able to give reasons for their conclusions, and to sympathetically understand why others may disagree.

3. Students are expected to develop further the art of conversation. Conversation requires active listening – that is, openness to what others have to say, asking questions, risking one’s opinions, and the willingness to engage in the back-and-forth of open-ended dialogue. Such conversations are essential for global citizenship in a pluralistic world.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

1. Class Attendance: Class attendance is required. You are expected to attend all class meetings and to have assignments prepared when they are due. More than three absences or three index cards not turned in will result in zero points for class participation. For each absence beyond three there will be a 5% deductions from your possible semester grade.

2. Class Participation: Participation does not mean mere presence in the classroom. Instead, it means active listening – that is, the willingness to engage in the back-and-forth of open-ended and reasoned conversations by being open to what others have to say, risking our opinions, asking questions, and surfacing disagreements. Such “active listening” is essential to being a community of scholars.

3. Laptops and Other Communication Devices: Please note that the use of laptops and other communication devices may only be used with the permission of the instructor.

4. Reading Assignments: You are asked to study carefully all required readings by the day on which they appear on the projected course schedule. It is important to note that you are asked not merely to read all assigned materials but to study them. Such study may require several readings of the material.
5. Class Time: Class meetings will be, for the most part, seminar conversations.

6. Index Cards: In order to aid class discussion, you are required to turn in a two-part index “card” for each reading assignment. A “Turnitin Assignment” folder exists for each day that cards are due. Please be sure to write your name on the cards as well as the date. Cards are to be placed in the assigned “Turnitin” folder by 6:00 p.m. on the night before class – late cards are not accepted.
   a. On one side of the card, you are to write important questions which you have about the assigned reading material for the day. On the other side, you are to write a response to the prior class – for example, you may write about something important you learned, about a critical reaction to something said in class, or about an issue that you would like the class to revisit.
   b. These cards together account for 20% of the semester’s grade and will be graded for their content.
      - Late cards are not accepted.
      - Every card not submitted on time will result in a 5% reduction of your semester grade.

7. Exams: There will be three exams during the semester. Review questions will be distributed at least one week prior to each exam.

8. Final Paper: At the end of the semester you are to write a paper on hermeneutics based on our study of the subject. In this paper you are to do the following:
   a. Construct your own understanding of hermeneutics.
   b. Locate your understanding within the history of the understanding of hermeneutics.
   c. Apply your understanding of hermeneutics to some subject in your major.
   d. This paper is to be placed in the Blackboard Turnitin for this course by midnight on May 25.
