I Am Love Itself

Even though Kundan Chhabra has never had a girlfriend, he aspires to be a relationship coach and spiritual guru. He tells his life story, tracing his influences back to his childhood in Burma. Today, Kundan writes poetry about women and performs them at open mic nights. His routine is meant to be heartfelt, but is often greeted with laughter and ridicule. Still, Kundan continues on his journey. This film challenges the modern conception of romance and relationships and tries to answer one of life's mystical questions: Why do we love?
