The Future of Print Journalism

My thesis examines how the journalism industry is combating the decline of print by exploring new realms in media mediums such as the Internet, mobile devices, and the “tablet” commonly known as the iPad. I include my experiences while working at the Orange County Register as a videographer and reporter for “OC Peel,” the official Register iPad application. Showcasing my portfolio of iPad news packages and exclusive interviews with the business professional working for the iPad Team, I hope to educate audiences about the technical adaptations affecting future news distributors and also advocate for the journalism industry.
