Rushin' to Make Friends:
An Interdisciplinary Examination of U.S.-Russian Relations

In our increasingly globalized world, foreign relations are more important than ever. Advancements in globalization and connectivity link everything from our current fashion trends to our political views at the click of a button. The relationship between the United States and Russia has been strained in a variety of ways since the Cold War. This presentation will examine the current state of U.S.-Russian relations through an interdisciplinary lens, bringing to light stereotypes from both countries, and looking at possible areas of growth in the relationship between our two nations.
