HONORS: ELDER LAW & JUVENILE LAW
PROFESSOR DAVID A. BERKOVITZ

COURSE OUTLINE

We must not allow this generation to produce record numbers for the juvenile justice, runaway and homeless youth, or foster care systems. — Ruben Hinojosa

Preparation for old age should begin not later than one's teens. A life which is empty of purpose until 65 will not suddenly become filled on retirement. — Arthur E. Morgan

Mr. Hinojosa and Mr. Morgan are both correct. — David A. Berkovitz.

Classroom: Demille Hall Seminar Room 107

Catalog Description: Prerequisite: acceptance to the University Honors Program, or consent of instructor and Honors Director. Elder Law & Juvenile Law concerns legal issues involving the rights and needs of children and the elderly. Finance, physical, and mental health matters are central in the study of elder law and juvenile law but any issue which impacts a child or an elder’s quality of life is included. In this course students will study the various issues and laws which confront children and the elderly, and compare and contrast how the law impacts these two groups. (Offered as needed) 3 credits.

Course Objectives: Elder Law & Juvenile Law is an introductory course in law for undergraduates who desire to learn about the legal issues of children and the elderly, and the laws governing these issues. The focus of the course will be the legal issues and laws confronting children and the elderly with a consideration of the social and financial concerns underlying these issues and laws. Emphasis is given to how the law provides for the various legal challenges of children and the elderly. Students should acquire a fundamental understanding of elder and juvenile law topics including wills, trusts, advance care directives, capacity, elder abuse, child abuse, conservatorships, guardianships, dependency, and the juvenile justice system.

Social Inquiry Learning Outcome: Students identify, frame and analyze social and/or historical structures and institutions in the world today.

Recording: You may not record the class. Copyright of instructor prepared materials is with the instructor, 17 U.S.C.A. §501, and is provided only for the students’ use in this course. Copyright to materials reproduced in this class remains with the original author and is used in this class solely for academic purposes within the permitted bounds of the U.S. Copyright Act, 17 U.S.C.A § 107. You may not give, post, disseminate, sell, license, exchange, or file-share any of these copyrighted materials to any other person, company, entity, website, file-share service or otherwise. That would be a copyright violation.

Inclusion: In my classroom all students are welcome regardless of race/ethnicity, gender identities, gender expressions, sexual orientation, socio-economic status, age, disabilities, religion, regional background, veteran status, citizenship status, and nationality. The success of an inclusive classroom relies on the participation, support, and understanding of you and your classmates. I encourage you to speak up and share your views in a classroom environment in which we all are expected to engage respectfully and with consideration for the dignity of all others. Participation is more than showing up to class. The quality (not quantity) of your contributions to classroom discussions are an integral part of the course. If previously you have been reluctant about participating in classroom discussions, this is an opportunity to hone skills which will benefit you during important occasions such as job interviews. Participation also includes active listening, showing respect to classmates and being punctual. Tardiness and missing classes will have a negative effect on your participation grade. Absences totaling 20% of the course will result in you failing the class.

Assistance: Please reach out to me to discuss any aspect of the course (or anything else) particularly anything that may be interfering with your learning. If you do experience difficulty with the course material it is important that you get assistance as soon as possible. Although I hope you find the course appropriately challenging, that challenge is valuable only if you have the opportunity and tools to meet the challenge. I will do everything I can to provide you the opportunity and tools to succeed in the course.
Chapman University’s Students with Disabilities Policy

In compliance with ADA guidelines, students who have any condition, either permanent or temporary, that might affect their ability to perform in this class are encouraged to contact the Office of Disability Services. If you will need to utilize your approved accommodations in this class, please follow the proper notification procedure for informing your professor(s). This notification process must occur more than a week before any accommodation can be utilized. Please contact Disability Services at (714) 516-4520 if you have questions regarding this procedure, or for information and to make an appointment to discuss and/or request potential accommodations based on documentation of your disability. Once formal approval of your need for an accommodation has been granted, you are encouraged to talk with your professor(s) about your accommodation options. The granting of any accommodation will not be retroactive and cannot jeopardize the academic standards or integrity of the course.

Equity and Diversity Statement

Chapman University is committed to ensuring equality and valuing diversity. Students and professors are reminded to show respect at all times as outlined in Chapman’s Harassment and Discrimination Policy. Any violations of this policy should be discussed with the professor, the Dean of Students and/or otherwise reported in accordance with this policy.

Student Support at Chapman University

Over the course of the semester, you may experience a range of challenges that interfere with your learning, such as problems with friend, family, and or significant other relationships; substance use; concerns about personal adequacy; feeling overwhelmed; or feeling sad or anxious without knowing why. These mental health concerns or stressful events may diminish your academic performance and/or reduce your ability to participate in daily activities. You can learn more about the resources available through Chapman University’s Student Psychological Counseling Services here: https://www.chapman.edu/students/health-and-safety/psychological-counseling/.

Fostering a community of care that supports the success of students is essential to the values of Chapman University. Occasionally, you may come across a student whose personal behavior concerns or worries you, either for the student’s well-being or yours. In these instances, you are encouraged to contact the Chapman University Student Concern Intervention Team who can respond to these concerns and offer assistance: https://www.chapman.edu/students/health-and-safety/student-concern/index.aspx. While it is preferred that you include your contact information so this team can follow up with you, you can submit a report anonymously. 24-hour emergency help is also available through Public Safety at 714-997-6763.
