

Kailee Billerbeck
BA Psychology

Mentor:
Edward R. Dana Jr.

Beckman 104

This presentation explores why we are the most self-centered society on record. It is commonly believed this is due to an empathy deficit, yet there is something even more alarming going on here that greatly threatens and hinders connectedness in our world today. Learn how stress in young people leads them to subscribe to egoism, toxic tribalism, and perfectionism- three mental frameworks which prohibit authentic connectedness.