MASTER OF ARTS IN COUNSELING

The Master's in Counseling program trains candidates who wish to work as professional school counselors in K-12 school settings. Chapman's competency-based program, aligned with the ASCA national standards, prepares graduates to advocate for all students within diverse educational communities. Students are trained on advanced systems including mental health counseling, college and career development, academic advisement and consultation with educational stakeholders.

- Tailored support and personalized instruction for individual learning needs
- Experiential and community-based learning that integrates coursework
- Diverse multicultural and multilingual fieldwork placement settings
- Optional emphasis fulfilling the educational requirements for Licensed Professional Clinical Counselor (LPCC), allowing graduates to provide mental health services in multiple settings (e.g., private practice, community mental health, medical settings, and schools)
- A prestigious reputation that extends to state and national accreditation and recognition
- $10,000 Golden State Teacher Grant funding available

“The decision to attend Chapman’s School Counseling program was one of the best decisions I’ve ever made. The program equips future school counselors with the latest research, knowledge and techniques used in school counseling. The faculty is highly personable and does an outstanding job supporting students throughout the program.”

– Joshua Cheng '23

“I chose Chapman for the prestigious training and collaborative efforts given by the dedicated professors. My cohort is full of passionate people who create a trusting community-based environment.
