Enrollment

THIS PAGE INCLUDES:

>> Enrollment

On this page, enter the number of candidates for an initial teaching credential who are enrolled in the initial teacher preparation programs within your institution of higher education (IHE) or organization. Do not report on the total number of students enrolled in the entire IHE. Do not include individuals who currently hold a teaching credential and are seeking additional licenses or endorsements, or individuals preparing for school-based careers other than classroom teachers (e.g., administrators, guidance counselors).

The Department recognizes that in many cases, candidates voluntarily report their race/ethnicity and gender data, and that in some cases, candidates may choose not to report this information. Please report on the race/ethnicity data you have available, though the data may not be complete. It is not expected that the sum of the enrolled students reported by race/ethnicity or by gender will necessarily equal the total number of students enrolled.

If your IHE offers both traditional and alternative programs, be sure to enter the candidates enrolled in the appropriate reports. For the traditional report, provide only the candidates enrolled in traditional programs within the IHE. For the alternative report, provide only the candidates enrolled in the alternative programs within the IHE.

After entering the enrollment data, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

Enrollment

For the purpose of Title II reporting, an enrolled student is defined as a student who has been admitted to a teacher preparation program, but who has not completed the program during the academic year being reported. An individual who completed the program during the academic year being reported is counted as a program completer and not an enrolled student.

Provide the number of students in the teacher preparation program in the following categories. Note that you must report on the number of students by ethnicity and race separately. Individuals who are non-Hispanic/Latino will be reported in one of the race categories. Also note that individuals can belong to one or more racial groups, so the sum of the members of each racial category may not necessarily add up to the total number of students enrolled. Teachers Prepared

On this page, enter the number of program completers by the subject area in which they were prepared to teach, and by their academic majors. Note that an individual can be counted in more than one academic major and subject area. For example, if an individual is prepared to teach Elementary Education and Mathematics, that individual should be counted in both subject areas. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major or subject area, you may leave the cell blank. Please use the "Other" category sparingly, if there is no similar subject area or academic major listed. In these cases, you should use the text box to describe the subject area(s) and/or the academic major(s) counted in the "Other" category.

If your IHE offers both traditional and alternative programs, be sure to enter the program completers in the appropriate reports. For the traditional report, provide only the program completers in traditional programs within the IHE. For the alternative report, provide only the program completers for the alternative programs within the IHE.

After entering the teachers prepared data, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

Teachers Prepared by Academic Major

Please provide the number of teachers prepared by academic major for academic year 2017-18. For the purposes of this section, number prepared means the number of program completers. "Academic major" refers to the actual major(s) declared by the program completer. An individual can be counted in more than one academic major. If no individuals were prepared in a particular academic major, please leave that cell blank. (§205\(b\)\(1\)\(H\))

Please note that the list of majors includes several "Teacher Education" majors, as well as several noneducation majors. Please use care in entering your majors to ensure education-specific majors and non-education majors are counted correctly. For example, if an individual majored in Chemistry, that individual should be counted in the "Chemistry" academic major category rather than the "Teacher Education–Chemistry" category.

Program Completers

On this page, enter the total number of individuals who completed the program in AY 2017-18 and the two prior academic years. If you submitted an IPRC last year, the number of program completers for the two prior academic years are pre-loaded from your prior year's report.

A program completer is a person who has met all the requirements of a state-approved teacher preparation program. Program completers include all those who are documented as having met such requirements. Documentation may take the form of a degree, institutional certificate, program credential, transcript or other written proof of having met the program's requirements. In applying this definition, the fact that an individual has or has not been recommended to the state for initial certification or licensure may not be used as a criterion for determining who is a program completer.

An individual cannot be classified as both enrolled and as a program completer at the same time. An enrolled individual is not a program completer. Once an individual has met all the requirements of a state-approved teacher preparation program and becomes a program completer, the individual is no longer classified as enrolled.

After entering the program completers, save the page using the floating save box at the bottom of the page.

Annual Goals - Mathematics

Each institution of higher education (IHE) that conducts a traditional teacher preparation program (including programs that offer any ongoing professional development programs) or alternative route to state credential program, and that enrolls students receiving Federal assistance under this Act, shall set annual quantifiable goals for increasing the number of prospective teachers trained in teacher shortage areas designated by the Secretary or by the state educational agency, including mathematics, science, special education, and instruction of limited English proficient students. 8. Describe your institution's most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

The teacher education curriculum for the three teaching certification programs—elementary, secondary, and special education—are characterized by a combination of specific courses and content that deal with appropriate pedagogy and practical strategies for providing instruction to children with disabilities, children from low income families, limited English proficient students, as well as children who may reside in urban or rural locales. For example, all teacher candidates are required to take EDUC 570 Voice, Diversity, Equity, EDUC 501 Second Language Acquisition, and EDUC 571 Collaboration for Inclusive School. As implied by the title, Voice, Diversity prepares prospective teachers to teach in all types of California schools, including students who come from low SES situations, urban centers, and rural areas. Second Language Acquisition not only deals with the theoretical underpinnings of the manner in which limited English proficient students acquire a second language, but also practical techniques and strategies that enable limited English proficient students to not only communicate effectively in English, but also comprehend and articulate abstract academic concepts in English. Collaboration for Inclusive Schooling equips our prospective teachers with the skills, tools, and knowledge to provide meaningful instruction to students with disabilities and special needs. In addition to the aforementioned classes, nearly all required teacher preparation classes are characterized by activities, units of instruction, and projects that deal with providing meaningful instruction to students, including the poor, students with disabilities and special needs as well as limited English proficient children and adolescents. For example, in specific teaching methods classes such as those in which candidates are taught how to teach social studies or mathematics, they learn how to adapt, modify, and differentiate social studies and mathematics instruction to suit the needs of students with special needs and disabilities as well as limited English proficient students. That is, prospective teachers exit the teacher preparation programs well prepared to address the diverse needs of the students of California.

Teacher Training

Provide the following information about your teacher preparation program. Please note that choosing 'yes' indicates that your teacher preparation program would be able to provide evidence upon request. \(§205\(a\)\(1\)\(G\)\)

1. Does your program prepare general education teachers to:

a. teach students with disabilities effectively

- Yes
 No

b. participate as a member of individualized education program teams

- Yes
 No

c. teach students who are limited English proficient effectively

- Yes

2. Provide a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares general education teachers to teach students with disabilities effectively, including training related to participation as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, and to effectively teach students who are limited English proficient. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the three elements listed above are not currently in place.

The education of students with disabilities is a persistent theme that is integrated in all credential coursework, but the topic is introduced and developed in a course entitled Collaboration for Inclusive Schooling. The course addresses collaboration, inclusive schooling, learning characteristics of students with disabilities, effective teaching strategies, working with diverse families of students with disabilities, legal aspects of special education, and becoming an effective change agent in the schools. The course includes instruction for meeting the needs of students with disabilities via participation as a collaborative member of an individualized education program team. There is also a 15-hour fieldwork requirement which provides opportunities for students to observe in a variety of school settings that support students with disabilities in their least restrictive environments. The education of limited English proficient students is also a persistent theme that is integrated in all coursework, but the notion is introduced and developed in a course entitled Second Language Acquisition, Literacy, and Learning in California Schools. The course content includes current theories regarding second language acquisition and the practical applications of theoretical knowledge at the elementary and secondary levels. The content of the course includes literacy development from a socio-psycholinguistic perspective. The content of the course addresses the state ELD standards, assessment, planning for literacy development and content area instruction. In addition, students participate in 4 field-based courses specifically designed to focus on both English language learners and students with disabilities.

3. Does your program prepare special education teachers to:

a. teach students with disabilities effectively

- Yes
- No
- Program does not prepare special education teachers

b. participate as a member of individualized education program teams

Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the three elements listed above are not currently in place.

The program prepares special education teacher candidates to teach students with disabilities by providing a series of courses and experiences that address fully the educational needs of students who are characterized by mild to moderate and moderate to severe disabilities. Each candidate learns how to facilitate the development of literacy (listening, speaking, reading, and writing) not only for native English speakers, but also for those whose primary language is other than English. The coursework covered by teacher candidates focuses on the characteristics of students with disabilities, effective teaching strategies, how to work with diverse populations, as well as the legal aspects and requirements of special education. The coursework includes a study of the theories, practices, and ethical issues regarding the modification of behavior to facilitate learning. Furthermore, candidates develop the skills to use and communicate assessment results. Teacher candidates learn how to make appropriate recommendations for report writing and for individualized education programs. The program prepares special education teacher candidates to teach students who are limited English proficient by providing opportunities for candidates to understand the characteristics of school-based structures designed to meet the needs of this particular population. The school based structures include the role of the individualized education program teams, English learner reclassification committees, etc. The program includes the teaching of methods that are responsive to the various levels of student English proficiency. Candidates receive instruction relative to linguistic development as well as first and second language acquisition. The program teaches candidates how to interpret assessment results, e.g., CELDT, for the purpose of using appropriate strategies not only to facilitate second language acquisition, but also to make content comprehensible.

Please use this space to provide any additional information that describes your teacher preparation program(s). You may also attach information to this report card (see below). The U.S. Department of Education is especially interested in any evaluation plans or interim or final reports that may be available.

The Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) Program provides the opportunity for candidates to earn a teaching credential and a master's degree. The MAT program aims to develop reflective and transformative teachers capable of working collaboratively with children, youth, their families, and communities. The mission of the Chapman MAT and credential programs is to prepare reflective teacher-researchers who use integrated, developmentally appropriate, and critical pedagogies and are ready to collaborate within diverse educational communities in order to lead us toward a more economically, socially, environmentally, and politically just world. The MAT programs consist of two credential and master degrees. Candidates may also enroll in a credential-only program. Each program responds to requirements set by external state and credentialing agencies. The two programs are listed below: • Master of Arts in Teaching: Secondary Education (Single Subject credential) • Master of Arts in Teaching: Secondary Education (Single Subject credential) with Music Emphasis The Master of Arts in Special Education (Special Education) provides the opportunity for candidates to earn a teaching credential and a master's degree. The goal of the Special Education programs is to develop highly competent, informed, and collaborative professionals. These programs will give students the tools to build inclusive communities of families and colleagues. Students learn to be effective communicators, informed decision makers, advocates for students, leaders and change agents, scholars, and mediators of diversity. The Special Education programs consist of two disability-related areas: mild/moderate and moderate/severe credential and master degrees. Candidates complete Special Education programs as either full-time or part-time students, and generally complete their program in four to seven semesters. Candidates may also enroll in a credential-only program. Each program responds to requirements set by external state and credentialing agencies. The two program options are listed below: • Master of Arts in Special Education with Mild/Moderate credential • Master of Arts in Special Education with Moderate/Severe credential Our unique teacher preparation programs emphasize linguistic and culturally responsive pedagogy to meet the needs of an increasingly diverse student population in California schools.
