

Chapman University
Attallah College of Educational Studies

Faculty Search: Assistant Professor of Teacher Education, Tenure-Track
Phone Interview Questions

Candidate: _____ Committee Member: _____

Question	Comments	Score: Range from 1 (weak) to 4 (strong)
1. What attracts you to this position?
2. Tell us about your prior experience in teaching courses and advising students in teacher education. What is your philosophy of teaching for a culturally diverse society?
3. Have you reviewed our Teacher Education Programs Website and courses? If so, what courses would be of interest and which ones would not? Why?
4. DFA Educator Development Academy (EDA) was developed with the idea of creating connections between the CES and our local community (schools, families, and non-profits). Describe your experiences and interests in building connections with local community schools.
5. What assets do you possess that make you an excellent candidate for this position?
6. Describe your research agenda and plan for the next 2-3 years. How does it intersect with teacher education? What would you need to conduct your research agenda here at Chapman?

7. Do you have any questions for us?
--------------------------------------	--	--

Total score from "Rating" column: _____

Mean score: _____

Comments:

Recommendation (Would you bring this candidate to campus?):

Signature: _____ Date: _____

Science Education/Teacher Education, Tenure Track, 2018 On-Campus Interview Rubric

Candidate Name: _____ Committee Member: _____

Question	Comment
Why do you feel that this position will be a good fit for you and your skills? What experience or qualifications can you contribute to support and expand our Teacher Education program?
What are the essential elements of a science education program?
Due to the nature of undergraduate and graduate education there are some events and activities outside of normal work hours (e.g., undergraduate and grad student conclaves, Discover Chapman Day, student panels, information sessions), describe your willingness to participate in those activities.
Chapman University promotes “personalized education” to the students. As a faculty member, what does that mean to you?
Describe your experience with teacher preparation programs. Discuss your thoughts on issues of diversity in teacher education.
What is your ideal work environment?
Describe a situation where you experienced a conflict with a colleague and tell us how it was resolved.
What career accomplishment are you most proud of? Why?
What are your short-term and long-term career plans? How does this position fit with those? What mentoring or support do you need to help you meet those goals?

Science Education/Teacher Education, Tenure Track, 2018
On-Campus Interview Rubric

Overall Comments/Notes:

(e.g., Unique skills and knowledge)

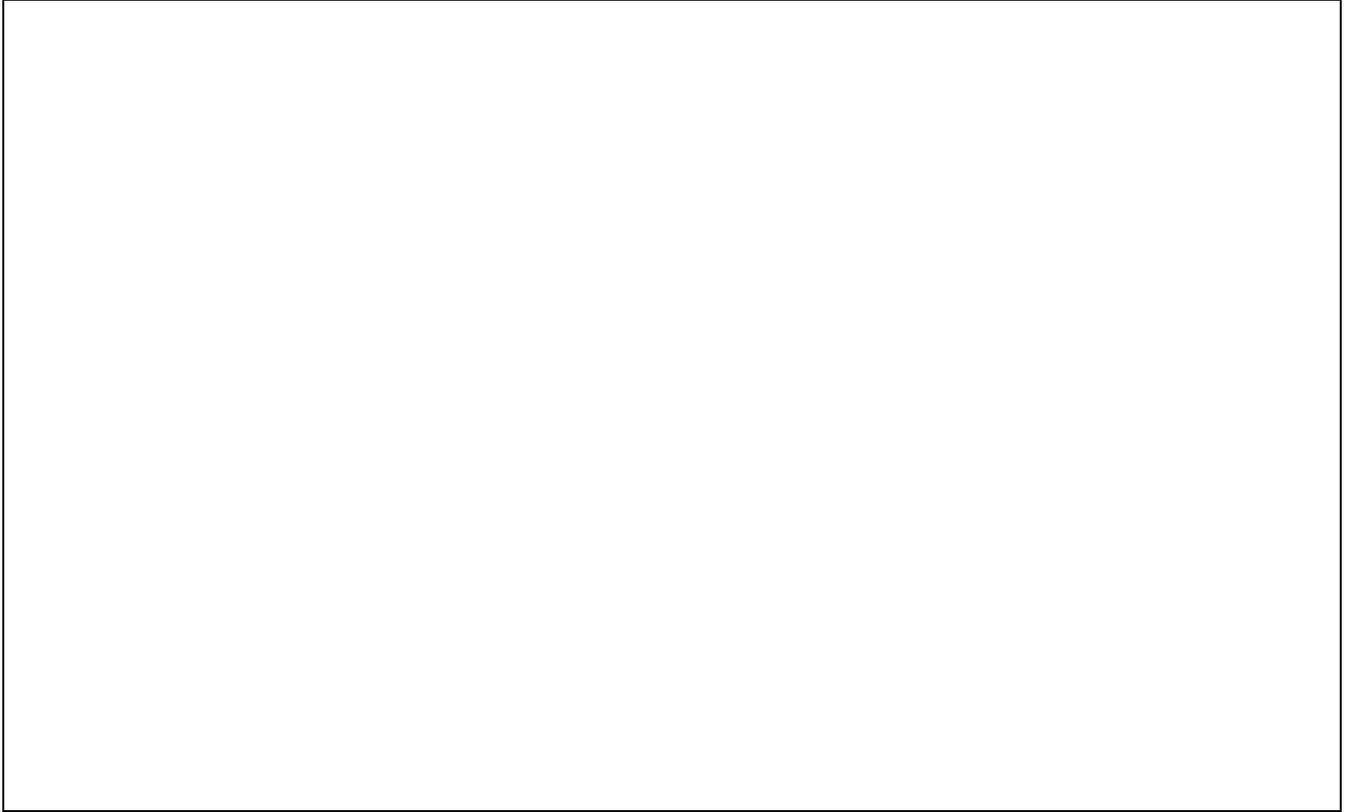

Strengths:

Concerns:

Do you recommend this candidate for further consideration? _____ Yes _____ No _____ Maybe

Why/Why not?

Science Education/Teacher Education, Tenure Track, 2018
On-Campus Interview Rubric

Signature: _____

Date: _____

2017-18 TE FACULTY SEARCH – CANDIDATE EVALUATION FORM

Context (Check one):

Research Presentation

Meeting with Staff

Teaching Demonstration/Meeting with Students

Other (Please specify: _____)

1. Does the candidate seem grounded in their area of academic expertise? If so, why? If not, why not?

2. Was this candidate clear and engaging and respectful? If so, why? If not, why not?

3. Based on your observations and/or interactions with the candidate, what is your overall impression of their presentation or pedagogical acumen/competence?

4. Did you learn anything new from this candidate? (If so, briefly describe what)

TURN OVER – CONTINUED ON BACK! (Thank You!)

5. What do you believe that the candidate could bring to the Attallah College (&/or TE Program)?

6. What added value might this candidate bring to the University?

7. Briefly tell us what you LIKE OR APPRECIATED about this candidate:

8. Briefly share any CONCERNS OR RESERVATIONS you might have about this candidate:

9. Please CIRCLE your overall impression of this candidate:

1 = Excellent/Superior 2 = Acceptable 3 = Acceptable with reservations 4 = Unacceptable

11. Feel free to add any other comments or observations:

FROM THE SEARCH COMMITTEE: We are grateful you have taken this time to provide feedback on the candidate. Your participation lays the foundation for the success of our search and your input represents a vital contribution to our ability to evaluate them fairly and – ultimately - choose the best candidate for the Attallah College. Thank you!

Applicant Reference Guide

The phone call should of course be somewhat conversational. I think we've all had calls from folks asking for references that we so rigidly structured that they felt odd. And remember, we're making an impression too. But these might be good to anchor the call.

We are considering _____ for a tenure-track position at Chapman University in Teacher Education with a focus on science education. Ms./Mr./Dr. _____ included you as a reference. We would like to ask you a few questions to determine the candidate's fit with our needs at Chapman.

1. This is a tenure-track position in Teacher Education, with a focus on Science Education. Chapman University is increasing the demands for research and scholarly publications, and highly values teaching. We also value service to the university and the community. What can you tell us about the candidate in each of these areas? How successful do you believe the candidate would be in moving towards tenure?

Follow-up Questions:

2. Could you tell me more about the candidate's potential for research and scholarship?
3. Could you tell me more about the candidate's potential for excellence in teaching in higher education?

Concluding Questions:

4. Is there anything else that you would like to add in terms of either research or teaching?
5. Is there anything else that you think we should know about the candidate?

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Teacher Education, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ATTALLAH COLLEGE OF EDUCATIONAL STUDIES

Job Information: The Donna Ford Attallah College of Educational Studies at Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Teacher Education, with expertise in Science Education in their Teacher Education Program, effective August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>. The Donna Ford Attallah College of Educational Studies houses both undergraduate and graduate programs in teacher education. At the graduate level, our credential-embedded Master of Arts program prepares K-12 teachers to work with children of varied cultural backgrounds. In addition, we offer an integrated 4+1 credential-embedded program starting at the undergraduate level that leads to a Master of Arts in Curriculum and Instruction. All credential programs recognize the need to develop teachers who can apply research-based approaches to teaching while maintaining the social consciousness to address inequities in current educational structures. The programs seek to prepare professionals who are forward thinking and envision the world of education in new and dynamic ways. We are committed to providing Chapman University students with a dynamic and intellectually challenging liberal arts-based education that promotes critical social transformation among our students and in schools and society. The Donna Ford Attallah College of Educational Studies offers Master of Arts degrees in Teaching, Curriculum

Job Description: Required Qualifications: * An earned doctorate in Science Education (or with Science Education emphasis), Learning Sciences, or related fields. * Desire to create innovative Science Education/STEM programs and experiences for pre-service and in-service teachers. * Ability to teach a range of teacher education courses in addition to science-specific courses. * Proven commitment to collaboration. * Experience with student-centered environments. * Understanding of educating for a culturally diverse society. Desirable Qualifications: * A valid Single Subject Credential (or the equivalent) in one of the science subjects at State or National Board level. * Evidence of effective teaching in higher education. * A demonstrated record or promise of sustainable and significant research and scholarship. * Experience in PK-12 schools as an educator. * Experience in multiple science content preparations (i.e., biological, physical, geo science). * Experience in integrating science into multiple core content areas (e.g., language arts, social science, and mathematics). * Familiarity with Common Core standards and Next Generation Science Standards, * Expertise in cross-disciplinary methods of examining learning processes and environments. * Active involvement in professional organizations. * An ability to design and implement program assessment tools. * Demonstrated commitment to collaborative research. * Experience using technology to enhance educational environments. * Experience with emergent bilingual learners and bilingual education. * Speaks Spanish and has first-hand experience with Latinx immigrant students and children of immigrants who represent a strong influence in the surrounding communities. Preference may be given to candidates with a background in teaching science methods at multiple levels (i.e., elementary, middle, and high school). Scholarly interests in, but not limited to, learning sciences, environmental science and urban sciences, PK-12 student outcomes, teacher preparation, teacher professional development, urban education, school-based research, school-community connections, inclusive schooling, bilingual education, Universal Design for Learning, and/or second language acquisition are desirable. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a faculty application, cover letter detailing qualifications related to the position description, curriculum vitae and one sample of research publications/submissions, and contact information for three references to: Dr. Meghan Cosier and Dr. Lilia Monzo, Search Committee Co-Chairs c/o Zac Nguyen, Search Coordinator, at znguyen@Chapman.edu Please use "Teacher Education Position" as the subject of the email. Application review will begin in November. Salary will be commensurate with experience and qualifications. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Inquiries: All inquiries about the position should be directed to Zac Nguyen at znguyen@Chapman.edu.

Open Day: 10/05/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

American Association of Hispanics in Higher Education, Inc.

ABOUT AAHHE	PROGRAMS	ANNUAL CONFERENCE	BECOME A MEMBER	JOB POSTINGS	AAHHE AWARDS
LEADERSHIP ACADEMY	CAMINOS THESIS COMPETITION	DISSERTATIONS COMPETITION	POLIMEMOS	PUBLICATIONS	SPONSORS

Showing Total 50 results

Search Jobs

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Communication Sciences and Disorders, Non-Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: CREAN COLLEGE OF HEALTH AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

Job Information: Chapman University's Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders seeks applications for a non-tenure track, Assistant Professor in Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences. The department is located on the Rinker Health Science campus in Irvine, California. The campus is home to several current accredited, graduate health science professional programs, including physical therapy, pharmacy, and physician assistant studies. The campus is distinguished by innovative teaching, learning and research laboratories and classrooms with an emphasis on inter-professional education, evidence-based practice, and health promotion and injury/disease prevention. The Rinker campus is strategically located near numerous health service, medical device, and biopharmaceutical companies. Chapman University offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select- pre- professional and graduate programs. Ranked 5th of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovation teaching. More information about the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/crean/academic-programs/graduate-programs/ms-communication-sciences-and-disorders/index.aspx> The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>.

Job Description: Requirements Include: Excellence in teaching Clinical supervision experience Knowledge of health care issues Commitment to working in an inter-professional health services environment Doctorate or a master's degree in communication disorders 2 (9/20/17) CCC-SLP certification Eligibility for CA license The successful candidate will have a minimum of 5 years of clinical experience, have expertise in working with adults with neurological problems, have experience supervising graduate students and have knowledge of managing a university clinic. Responsibilities Include: Graduate teaching and supervision in adult neurological communication disorders including aphasia, motor speech disorders, and/or cognitive impairments. Candidates should electronically submit a faculty employment application, letter of intent, curriculum vitae, teaching and supervision statement as well as contact information for three references to: Dr. Mary Kennedy, Communication Sciences and Disorders Search Committee Chair c/o Catherine Dee, Search Coordinator, at dee@chapman.edu Please use "Communication Sciences and Disorders Position" as the email subject line. Review of applications begin in November. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Inquiries: All inquiries about the position should be directed to Catherine Dee at dee@chapman.edu. Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here.

Open Day: 10/05/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Communication Sciences and Disorders, Non-Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: CREAN COLLEGE OF HEALTH AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

Job Information: Chapman University's Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders seeks applications for a non-tenure track, Assistant Professor in Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences. The department is located on the Rinker Health Science campus in Irvine, California. The campus is home to several current accredited, graduate health science professional programs, including physical therapy, pharmacy, and physician assistant studies. The campus is distinguished by innovative teaching, learning and research laboratories and classrooms with an emphasis on inter-professional education, evidence-based practice, and health promotion and injury/disease prevention. The Rinker campus is strategically located near numerous health service, medical device, and biopharmaceutical companies. Chapman University offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select- pre- professional and graduate programs. Ranked 5th of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovation teaching. More information about the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/crean/academic-programs/graduate-programs/ms-communication-sciences-and-disorders/index.aspx> The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>.

Job Description: Requirements Include: Excellence in teaching Clinical supervision experience Knowledge of health care issues Commitment to working in an inter-professional health services environment
Doctorate or a master's degree in communication disorders 2 (9/20/17) CCC-SLP certification Eligibility for CA license The successful candidate will have a minimum of 5 years of clinical experience, have expertise in working with adults with neurological problems, have experience supervising graduate students and have knowledge of managing a university clinic. Responsibilities Include: Graduate teaching and supervision in adult neurological communication disorders including aphasia, motor speech disorders, and/or cognitive impairments. Candidates should electronically submit a faculty employment application, letter of intent, curriculum vitae, teaching and supervision statement as well as contact information for three references to: Dr. Mary Kennedy, Communication Sciences and Disorders Search Committee Chair c/o Catherine Dee, Search Coordinator, at dee@chapman.edu Please use "Communication Sciences and Disorders Position" as the email subject line. Review of applications begin in November. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Inquiries: All inquiries about the position should be directed to Catherine Dee at dee@chapman.edu. Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here.

Open Day: 10/05/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Professor of English, Tenured, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: WILKINSON COLLEGE OF ARTS, HUMANITIES, AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a Full Professor position in the Department of English, Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, to be affiliated with the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy, beginning August 2018. The mission of the Smith Institute is to reintegrate the study of the humanities and economics in the spirit of Adam Smith, author of The Theory of Moral Sentiments and An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, and to recombine research and undergraduate education as a discovery process in the spirit of Vernon Smith, the progenitor of experimental economics. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>.

Job Description: Candidates will have a Ph.D. in English and will show evidence of excellent teaching and an active research agenda. The area of specialization for the appointment is the English Restoration. The ideal candidate should have knowledge of classical political economy (Adam Smith) and a research agenda that includes investigating questions at the intersection of economics and English literature. The area of competence is open. The candidate will develop and maintain an active line of research in English literature and build bridges between the Department of English, the Argyros School of Business and Economics, and the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy. Teaching responsibilities will include undergraduate courses in English and other upper and lower division courses depending on teaching interests and competence. Qualified applicant should electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, and three letters of recommendation with contact information to: Dr. Jan Osborn, Search Committee Chair Dept. of English & Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy Chapman University at sanordrum@chapman.edu Please use "Professor of English: English Restoration" in the email subject line. Applicants should be sure to identify their fit with the Smith Institute's mission. Application review will begin immediately and continue until position is filled. Salary is commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate. Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here.

Open Day: 08/02/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

Back to Top

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Professor of English, Tenured, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: WILKINSON COLLEGE OF ARTS, HUMANITIES, AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a Full Professor position in the Department of English, Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, to be affiliated with the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy, beginning August 2018. The mission of the Smith Institute is to reintegrate the study of the humanities and economics in the spirit of Adam Smith, author of The Theory of Moral Sentiments and An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, and to recombine research and undergraduate education as a discovery process in the spirit of Vernon Smith, the progenitor of experimental economics. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>.

Job Description: Candidates will have a Ph.D. in English and will show evidence of excellent teaching and an active research agenda. The area of specialization for the appointment is the English Restoration. The ideal candidate should have knowledge of classical political economy (Adam Smith) and a research agenda that includes investigating questions at the intersection of economics and English literature. The area of competence is open. The candidate will develop and maintain an active line of research in English literature and build bridges between the Department of English, the Argyros School of Business and Economics, and the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy. Teaching responsibilities will include undergraduate courses in English and other upper and lower division courses depending on teaching interests and competence. Qualified applicant should electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, and three letters of recommendation with contact information to: Dr. Jan Osborn, Search Committee Chair Dept. of English & Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy Chapman University at sanordrum@chapman.edu. Please use "Professor of English: English Restoration" in the email subject line. Applicants should be sure to identify their fit with the Smith Institute's mission. Application review will begin immediately and continue until position is filled. Salary is commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate. Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here.

Open Day: 08/02/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant/Associate Professor in the Creative and Cultural Industries

DEPARTMENT: WILKINSON COLLEGE OF ARTS, HUMANITIES, AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure-track/tenured Assistant/Associate Professor in the Creative and Cultural Industries, to be housed within the Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>.

Job Description: Qualifications: A terminal degree in a relevant field is required. We are open to all areas, but are particularly keen to develop our strengths in any of the following: Digital Humanities/ digital cultures; CCI policy; cross-cultural CCI studies; cultural memories; critical theory and cultural studies; visual cultures. The interdisciplinary position will be appointed in one of the nine academic department within WCAHSS that is best aligned with the candidate's teaching and research in the visual arts, creative writing, humanities, or social sciences. Additional areas of interest, experience, research, or creative activity are welcome. Examples of such areas include the creative economy, cultural studies, disability studies, game development, intellectual property, media studies, print and electronic publishing, programming or user interface design, public relations, data collection, analysis, or visualization. The successful applicant will have an outstanding research profile, measured either in production or demonstrated potential for production. Research or creative activity in the Creative and Cultural Industries or the Digital Humanities should be situated within theoretical and methodological approaches appropriate to the applicant's subject area of expertise. Tenured candidates must have an established track-record in scholarly research or creative activity. Tenure-track candidates must demonstrate strong potential for teaching undergraduate and graduate students. Tenured candidates must have strong record of teaching undergraduate and graduate students. Applications from candidates with a fresh and dynamic perspective on teaching, curriculum development, interdisciplinary practices, and a commitment to mentoring students are especially welcome. Responsibilities: Tenured faculty are expected to further develop and maintain an active research agenda and are evaluated on their research/scholarly/creative activity, teaching, and service. Tenure-track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly/creative activity, teaching, and service. The faculty member will be expected to support the Creative Media Studies/Creative Industries minor, teaching courses in this area; supervise student capstone/thesis projects in the department of appointment; and work with colleagues in Wilkinson College to shape the future of the university. Applications from candidates with success in or potential for attracting external grants to support research, program development, and/or pedagogical work are especially welcome. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a faculty application, letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy (1-2 pages), and one sample publication, dissertation chapter, or links to substantive digital project(s) to: Dr. Stephanie Takaragawa, Search Chair c/o Shannon Halverson-Gorajia, shalvers@chapman.edu. Please use "CCI/DH Faculty Position" as the email subject line. Candidates will be contacted if three recommendations should be sent by their authors or the candidate's dossier service to the same e-mail address. Application review begins November 1, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. Skype interviews will be held in December. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Chapman University requires background checks for all new employees. Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here.

Open Day: 08/28/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant/Associate Professor in the Creative and Cultural Industries

DEPARTMENT: WILKINSON COLLEGE OF ARTS, HUMANITIES, AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure-track/tenured Assistant/Associate Professor in the Creative and Cultural Industries, to be housed within the Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>.

Job Description: Qualifications: A terminal degree in a relevant field is required. We are open to all areas, but are particularly keen to develop our strengths in any of the following: Digital Humanities/ digital cultures; CCI policy; cross-cultural CCI studies; cultural memories; critical theory and cultural studies; visual cultures. The interdisciplinary position will be appointed in one of the nine academic department within WCAHSS that is best aligned with the candidate's teaching and research in the visual arts, creative writing, humanities, or social sciences. Additional areas of interest, experience, research, or creative activity are welcome. Examples of such areas include the creative economy, cultural studies, disability studies, game development, intellectual property, media studies, print and electronic publishing, programming or user interface design, public relations, data collection, analysis, or visualization. The successful applicant will have an outstanding research profile, measured either in production or demonstrated potential for production. Research or creative activity in the Creative and Cultural Industries or the Digital Humanities should be situated within theoretical and methodological approaches appropriate to the applicant's subject area of expertise. Tenured candidates must have an established track-record in scholarly research or creative activity. Tenure-track candidates must demonstrate strong potential for teaching undergraduate and graduate students. Tenured candidates must have strong record of teaching undergraduate and graduate students. Applications from candidates with a fresh and dynamic perspective on teaching, curriculum development, interdisciplinary practices, and a commitment to mentoring students are especially welcome. Responsibilities: Tenured faculty are expected to further develop and maintain an active research agenda and are evaluated on their research/scholarly/creative activity, teaching, and service. Tenure-track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly/creative activity, teaching, and service. The faculty member will be expected to support the Creative Media Studies/Creative Industries minor, teaching courses in this area; supervise student capstone/thesis projects in the department of appointment; and work with colleagues in Wilkinson College to shape the future of the university. Applications from candidates with success in or potential for attracting external grants to support research, program development, and/or pedagogical work are especially welcome. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a faculty application, letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy (1-2 pages), and one sample publication, dissertation chapter, or links to substantive digital project(s) to: Dr. Stephanie Takaragawa, Search Chair c/o Shannon Halverson-Gorajia, shalvers@chapman.edu. Please use "CCI/DH Faculty Position" as the email subject line. Candidates will be contacted if three recommendations should be sent by their authors or the candidate's dossier service to the same e-mail address. Application review begins November 1, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. Skype interviews will be held in December. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Chapman University requires background checks for all new employees. Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here.

Back to Top

Open Day: 08/28/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Practice in School Counseling, Non Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ATTALLAH COLLEGE OF EDUCATIONAL STUDIES

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for non-tenure track, Assistant Professor of Practice in School Counseling, in the Attallah College of Educational Studies, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about Chapman University and the College of Educational Studies is available at <http://www.chapman.edu> The Counseling and School Psychology (CSP) programs recognize the need to prepare school counseling professionals who are forward thinking and who envision the world of education in new and innovative ways. We are committed to providing Chapman University graduates with a dynamic and intellectually challenging education that focuses on student advocacy, mental health in the schools, and application of the ASCA model of practice. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/>

Job Description: Required Qualifications • Earned Ph.D./Ed.D./Psy.D. by start of the appointment. • Familiarity with the ASCA model. • Demonstrated potential of effective teaching at the graduate level. • Active engagement in providing professional development to school counselors • Active involvement in State and National professional organizations. • Demonstrated ability to build beneficial and productive working relationships within the university and public education communities. • Demonstrated ability to supervise school counseling fieldwork and teach graduate courses directly related to school counseling. • CA credential (or equivalent) and 5 years of professional experience in school counseling. 2 (9/20/17)
Desirable Qualifications • Experience with development and implementation of innovative clinical and school counseling programs. • Ability to design and implement program assessment tools. • Ability to teach courses across CSP program courses (i.e., school counseling, school psychology, clinical counseling) as needed. • CA licensure or eligibility for licensure as a Psychologist, LPCC, MFT, or LCSW. • Graduate of CACREP, APA or equivalently accredited program. Responsibilities: Faculty are expected to teach, advise, and mentor students across the CSP programs, particularly those in the School Counseling track. Actively contribute as an integral member of the school counseling and school psychology faculty in the ongoing development, implementation, and assessment of the overall program. Stay informed of research and cutting edge practices in the field of school counseling, supervision, and mental health. Actively participate in the continuing education of school counselors, counselors and/or school psychologists through presentations at conferences, school district partnerships, and local professional organizations. Interested and qualified candidates are invited to electronically submit a cover letter detailing qualifications related to the position description, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, samples of relevant publications, presentations, or syllabi, and contact information for three references to: Amy-Jane Griffiths and Randy Busse, Search Chairs c/o Hilary Leath, Search Coordinator at leath@chapman.edu Please include, "School Counseling Position" in the subject line. The University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package. Salary will be commensurate with experience; an excellent benefits package includes medical, dental, and tuition remission programs. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final budget approval. Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here.

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Practice in School Counseling, Non Tenure Track,

Back to Top

August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ATTALLAH COLLEGE OF EDUCATIONAL STUDIES

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for non-tenure track, Assistant Professor of Practice in School Counseling, in the Attallah College of Educational Studies, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about Chapman University and the College of Educational Studies is available at <http://www.chapman.edu> The Counseling and School Psychology (CSP) programs recognize the need to prepare school counseling professionals who are forward thinking and who envision the world of education in new and innovative ways. We are committed to providing Chapman University graduates with a dynamic and intellectually challenging education that focuses on student advocacy, mental health in the schools, and application of the ASCA model of practice. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/>

Job Description: Required Qualifications • Earned Ph.D./Ed.D/Psy.D. by start of the appointment. • Familiarity with the ASCA model. • Demonstrated potential of effective teaching at the graduate level. • Active engagement in providing professional development to school counselors • Active involvement in State and National professional organizations. • Demonstrated ability to build beneficial and productive working relationships within the university and public education communities. • Demonstrated ability to supervise school counseling fieldwork and teach graduate courses directly related to school counseling. • CA credential (or equivalent) and 5 years of professional experience in school counseling. 2 (9/20/17)
Desirable Qualifications • Experience with development and implementation of innovative clinical and school counseling programs. • Ability to design and implement program assessment tools. • Ability to teach courses across CSP program courses (i.e., school counseling, school psychology, clinical counseling) as needed. • CA licensure or eligibility for licensure as a Psychologist, LPCC, MFT, or LCSW. • Graduate of CACREP, APA or equivalently accredited program. Responsibilities: Faculty are expected to teach, advise, and mentor students across the CSP programs, particularly those in the School Counseling track. Actively contribute as an integral member of the school counseling and school psychology faculty in the ongoing development, implementation, and assessment of the overall program. Stay informed of research and cutting edge practices in the field of school counseling, supervision, and mental health. Actively participate in the continuing education of school counselors, counselors and/or school psychologists through presentations at conferences, school district partnerships, and local professional organizations. Interested and qualified candidates are invited to electronically submit a cover letter detailing qualifications related to the position description, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, samples of relevant publications, presentations, or syllabi, and contact information for three references to: Amy-Jane Griffiths and Randy Busse, Search Chairs c/o Hilary Leath, Search Coordinator at leath@chapman.edu Please include, "School Counseling Position" in the subject line. The University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package. Salary will be commensurate with experience; an excellent benefits package includes medical, dental, and tuition remission programs. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final budget approval. Download a copy of the Chapman Faculty Application for Employment here.

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Professor of English, Tenured, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a Full Professor position in the Department of English, Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, to be affiliated with the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy, beginning August 2018. The mission of the Smith Institute is to reintegrate the study of the humanities and economics in the spirit of Adam Smith, the author of The Theory of Moral Sentiments and An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, and to recombine research and undergraduate education as a discovery process in the spirit of Vernon Smith, the progenitor of experimental economics. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu>. The candidate will develop and maintain an active line of research in English literature and build bridges between the Department of English, the Argyros School of Business and Economics, and the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy. Teaching responsibilities will include undergraduate courses in English and other upper and lower division courses depending on teaching interests and competence.

Back to Top

Job Description: Candidates will have a Ph.D. in English and will show evidence of excellent teaching and an active research agenda. The area of specialization for the appointment is Modernism. The ideal candidate should have knowledge of classical political economy (Adam Smith) and a research agenda that includes investigating questions at the intersection of economics, globalism, and English literature. The area of competence is open. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, a faculty employment application, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, and three letters of recommendation with contact information to: Dr. Jan Osborn, Search Committee Chair Dept. of English & Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy Chapman University at sanordrum@chapman.edu Please use "Professor of English: Modernism" in the email subject line. Applicants should be sure to identify their fit with the Smith Institute's mission. Application review will begin immediately and continue until position is filled. Salary is commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 08/02/2017

Close Day: 11/26/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Professor of English, Tenured, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a Full Professor position in the Department of English, Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, to be affiliated with the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy, beginning August 2018. The mission of the Smith Institute is to reintegrate the study of the humanities and economics in the spirit of Adam Smith, the author of The Theory of Moral Sentiments and An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, and to recombine research and undergraduate education as a discovery process in the spirit of Vernon Smith, the progenitor of experimental economics. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu>. The candidate will develop and maintain an active line of research in English literature and build bridges between the Department of English, the Argyros School of Business and Economics, and the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy. Teaching responsibilities will include undergraduate courses in English and other upper and lower division courses depending on teaching interests and competence.

Job Description: Candidates will have a Ph.D. in English and will show evidence of excellent teaching and an active research agenda. The area of specialization for the appointment is Modernism. The ideal candidate should have knowledge of classical political economy (Adam Smith) and a research agenda that includes investigating questions at the intersection of economics, globalism, and English literature. The area of competence is open. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, a faculty employment application, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, and three letters of recommendation with contact information to: Dr. Jan Osborn, Search Committee Chair Dept. of English & Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy Chapman University at sanordrum@chapman.edu Please use "Professor of English: Modernism" in the email subject line. Applicants should be sure to identify their fit with the Smith Institute's mission. Application review will begin immediately and continue until position is filled. Salary is commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 08/02/2017

Close Day: 11/26/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Art History, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: DEPARTMENT OF ART

Job Information: Chapman University's Art Department seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Art History within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Teach five courses a year, supervise student theses, and maintain active research and publication agendas. Service is also expected. Teaching responsibilities include relevant general survey(s) of art history, as well as more specialized courses in the area of expertise and capstone method-and- theory courses. Tenure-track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching, and service.

Back to Top

Job Description: A Ph.D. is required. We seek applicants with a specialty in art history outside Europe to teach undergraduate courses in a program with two full-time colleagues. The area of primary expertise must be in a tradition other than European (examples include, but are not limited to: Pre-Columbian/Latin American, Native American/First Nations, Pacific Island/Oceanic, Aboriginal, South or East Asian, African, or Islamic art). We welcome applications from candidates whose expertise covers any chronological period within those traditions, from ancient to contemporary art. The department encourages applications from candidates with a fresh and dynamic perspective on teaching, curricular development, interdisciplinary practices, and a commitment to mentoring students. Expertise in the use of digital technology for pedagogy and scholarship is desirable but not required. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a faculty application, letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, one sample publication (or dissertation chapter), and sample syllabi to: Dr. Justin Walsh, Search Chair, at art@chapman.edu Please use "Art History Faculty Position" as the email subject line. Three recommendations should be sent by their authors to the same e-mail address. Application review begins December 1, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. We hope to conduct interviews at CAA in February. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. The University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County home-buyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 08/25/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Art History, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: DEPARTMENT OF ART

Job Information: Chapman University's Art Department seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Art History within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Teach five courses a year, supervise student theses, and maintain active research and publication agendas. Service is also expected. Teaching responsibilities include relevant general survey(s) of art history, as well as more specialized courses in the area of expertise and capstone method-and- theory courses. Tenure-track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching, and service.

Job Description: A Ph.D. is required. We seek applicants with a specialty in art history outside Europe to teach undergraduate courses in a program with two full-time colleagues. The area of primary expertise must be in a tradition other than European (examples include, but are not limited to: Pre-Columbian/Latin American, Native American/First Nations, Pacific Island/Oceanic, Aboriginal, South or East Asian, African, or Islamic art). We welcome applications from candidates whose expertise covers any chronological period within those traditions, from ancient to contemporary art. The department encourages applications from candidates with a fresh and dynamic perspective on teaching, curricular development, interdisciplinary practices, and a commitment to mentoring students. Expertise in the use of digital technology for pedagogy and scholarship is desirable but not required. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a faculty application, letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, one sample publication (or dissertation chapter), and sample syllabi to: Dr. Justin Walsh, Search Chair, at art@chapman.edu Please use "Art History Faculty Position" as the email subject line. Three recommendations should be sent by their authors to the same e-mail address. Application review begins December 1, 2017 and continues until the position is filled. We hope to conduct interviews at CAA in February. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. The University offers a relocation Back to Top expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County home-buyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 08/25/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Communication, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

Job Information: The Chapman University School of Communication is seeking applications for a Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Communication, with a specialization in new media and emerging technologies and a secondary emphasis in quantitative research methods, to join the school in August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The rapidly growing School of Communication offers B.A. and M.S. degrees to approximately 800 students. The Chapman University School of Communication faculty demonstrate a high-profile record of publications in top-tier journals, leadership in regional, national, and international communication associations, interdisciplinary associations, innovative scholarship and teaching/learning practices and significant external funding. For more information: <https://www.chapman.edu/communication/index.aspx> Responsibilities of tenure-track/tenured faculty members include teaching five courses each academic year in our undergraduate and graduate programs, an active program of research in the candidate's area of scholarly expertise, and service contributions in accordance with university policy for tenure-track and tenured appointments. Tenure track faculty are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: Ideal candidates include ~

- Researchers conducting theory-driven, engaged scholarship with applied, transformative implications.
- Applicants whose scholarship intersects with, and extends, one or more of the school's primary research foci: health and strategic communication, interpersonal communication, instructional communication and training and development; organizational communication, and both mass and social media effects research.
- Interest in examining how technological innovations are changing communication processes and contexts, and how these innovations impact and inform strategic communication attempts.
- Applicants interested in contributing to and further developing research-oriented courses in our rapidly growing Strategic and Corporate Communication and Communication Studies undergraduate programs, the Health and Strategic Communication Master's program, and forthcoming Ph.D. program (pending final approvals) in Fall 2019.
- Quantitative researchers who also employ mixed-method approaches. Requirements include ~
- A Ph.D. or equivalent degree in communication or a closely aligned field is required by June 2018.
- Excellent scholarship record commensurate with level of experience, evidenced by relevant research fellowships, publications in top-tier peer-reviewed journals, and/or research grant or external funding and demonstration of ability to teach a variety of core courses.
- Ability to teach courses in the School of Communication's B.A., M.S., and forthcoming Ph.D. programs, with a commitment to personalized education and a willingness to involve undergraduate and graduate students in their research.
- Ability to effectively translate the applications of their research for academics and practitioners.
- Willingness to advance the research mission of Chapman University through pursuit of external funding and/or interdisciplinary collaborations. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application, curriculum vita, portfolio (or selected research publications as appropriate), teaching evaluations, and three letters of professional recommendation to: Dr. Sara LaBelle, Search Committee Chair at labelle@chapman.edu Application review will begin on November 1, 2017. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. The University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 09/21/2017

Close Day: 10/31/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Communication, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

Job Information: The Chapman University School of Communication is seeking applications for a Tenure Track Assistant Professor of Communication, with a specialization in new media and emerging technologies and a secondary emphasis in quantitative research methods, to join the school in August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs.

Back to Top

Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The rapidly growing School of Communication offers B.A. and M.S. degrees to approximately 800 students. The Chapman University School of Communication faculty demonstrate a high-profile record of publications in top-tier journals, leadership in regional, national, and international communication associations, interdisciplinary associations, innovative scholarship and teaching/learning practices and significant external funding. For more information:

<https://www.chapman.edu/communication/index.aspx> Responsibilities of tenure-track/tenured faculty members include teaching five courses each academic year in our undergraduate and graduate programs, an active program of research in the candidate's area of scholarly expertise, and service contributions in accordance with university policy for tenure-track and tenured appointments. Tenure track faculty are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: Ideal candidates include ~

- Researchers conducting theory-driven, engaged scholarship with applied, transformative implications.
- Applicants whose scholarship intersects with, and extends, one or more of the school's primary research foci: health and strategic communication, interpersonal communication, instructional communication and training and development; organizational communication, and both mass and social media effects research.
- Interest in examining how technological innovations are changing communication processes and contexts, and how these innovations impact and inform strategic communication attempts.
- Applicants interested in contributing to and further developing research-oriented courses in our rapidly growing Strategic and Corporate Communication and Communication Studies undergraduate programs, the Health and Strategic Communication Master's program, and forthcoming Ph.D. program (pending final approvals) in Fall 2019.
- Quantitative researchers who also employ mixed-method approaches. Requirements include ~
- A Ph.D. or equivalent degree in communication or a closely aligned field is required by June 2018.
- Excellent scholarship record commensurate with level of experience, evidenced by relevant research fellowships, publications in top-tier peer-reviewed journals, and/or research grant or external funding and demonstration of ability to teach a variety of core courses.
- Ability to teach courses in the School of Communication's B.A., M.S., and forthcoming Ph.D. programs, with a commitment to personalized education and a willingness to involve undergraduate and graduate students in their research.
- Ability to effectively translate the applications of their research for academics and practitioners.
- Willingness to advance the research mission of Chapman University through pursuit of external funding and/or interdisciplinary collaborations. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application, curriculum vita, portfolio (or selected research publications as appropriate), teaching evaluations, and three letters of professional recommendation to: Dr. Sara LaBelle, Search Committee Chair at labelle@chapman.edu Application review will begin on November 1, 2017. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. The University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 09/21/2017

Close Day: 10/31/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Nutritional Pharmacology, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE

Job Information: Chapman University is seeking a tenure track faculty member to engage in innovative research at the interface of nutritional science, pharmacology, biochemistry, and food science. The faculty member will have a joint appointment in the Schmid College of Science and Technology (Biochemistry & Chemistry and Food Science) and the School of Pharmacy, with the primary appointment in Food Science. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national prominence with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the Schmid College of Science and Technology and the School of Pharmacy is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to collaborate on research and teaching initiatives with faculty across the breadth of disciplines represented by the two units. Teaching responsibilities will include graduate/Pharm.D. courses in nutritional pharmacology and functional foods, and undergraduate courses in nutritional biochemistry and medicinal chemistry. The ability to direct both undergraduate and graduate student research is required. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: The ideal candidate will have a Ph.D. in nutritional science, biochemistry, nutritional pharmacology, food science or related field with demonstrated ability to establish an independent research program that spans pharmacology, biochemistry and nutrition. Excellence in teaching is expected, and post-doctoral experience is preferred. Qualified applicants must electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application (see below), curriculum vitae, research statement, brief teaching philosophy statement, and arrange for the submission of three letters of reference to: Dr. Lilian Were, Search Chair C/O Academic Jobs Online <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9223> NOTE: The letter of application must clearly articulate how the candidate envisions contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusion missions of Chapman University. Application review will begin Fall 2017. Competitive salary and start-up funds will be provided. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Back to Top

Open Day: 06/08/2017

Close Day: 11/26/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Nutritional Pharmacology, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE

Job Information: Chapman University is seeking a tenure track faculty member to engage in innovative research at the interface of nutritional science, pharmacology, biochemistry, and food science. The faculty member will have a joint appointment in the Schmid College of Science and Technology (Biochemistry & Chemistry and Food Science) and the School of Pharmacy, with the primary appointment in Food Science. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national prominence with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the Schmid College of Science and Technology and the School of Pharmacy is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The successful candidate will have the opportunity to collaborate on research and teaching initiatives with faculty across the breadth of disciplines represented by the two units. Teaching responsibilities will include graduate/Pharm.D. courses in nutritional pharmacology and functional foods, and undergraduate courses in nutritional biochemistry and medicinal chemistry. The ability to direct both undergraduate and graduate student research is required. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: The ideal candidate will have a Ph.D. in nutritional science, biochemistry, nutritional pharmacology, food science or related field with demonstrated ability to establish an independent research program that spans pharmacology, biochemistry and nutrition. Excellence in teaching is expected, and post-doctoral experience is preferred. Qualified applicants must electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application (see below), curriculum vitae, research statement, brief teaching philosophy statement, and arrange for the submission of three letters of reference to: Dr. Lilian Were, Search Chair C/O Academic Jobs Online <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9223> NOTE: The letter of application must clearly articulate how the candidate envisions contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusion missions of Chapman University. Application review will begin Fall 2017. Competitive salary and start-up funds will be provided. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 06/08/2017

Close Day: 11/26/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Finance, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ARGYROS SCHOOL OF BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

Job Information: The George L. Argyros School of Business and Economics at Chapman University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Finance position, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The Argyros School is fully accredited by AACSB and offers bachelor's degrees in business administration, economics, and accounting as well as the MBA and EMBA. The School currently has 1,600 undergraduates and 300 graduate students who attend classes in a modern 100,000 square foot state-of-the-art facility. Additional information can be found at <http://www.chapman.edu/argyros>. The position offers a competitive salary and a summer research stipend as well as a discretionary research budget. In addition, Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Duties include establishing or continuing a research program in the candidate's field, teaching, and mentoring students. The standard teaching load is three semester courses per year through the tenure decision. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

The successful candidate may also be appointed to Chapman University's Economic Science Institute as a Research Associate. Led by Nobel Laureate Vernon Smith, the Economic Science Institute is part of the Argyros School of Business and Economics and houses nationally recognized scholars providing collaborative research opportunities applied to a wide v

Job Description: A doctoral degree is required by August 1, 2018. Qualified applicants must demonstrate the potential for publishing high-quality academic research and excellent teaching. Candidates from all areas of finance will be considered including applicants with an interest in real estate finance. Qualified applicants can electronically submit cover letter, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, a research paper and at least three references to: Dr. Marc Weidenmier, Search Chair at jenbrady@chapman.edu. Please use "Finance Position" as the subject of the email. Representatives will be interviewing candidates at the American Economic Association (ASSA) meetings in Philadelphia in early January. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 09/07/2017

Close Day: 12/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Finance, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ARGYROS SCHOOL OF BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

Job Information: The George L. Argyros School of Business and Economics at Chapman University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Finance position, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The Argyros School is fully accredited by AACSB and offers bachelor's degrees in business administration, economics, and accounting as well as the MBA and EMBA. The School currently has 1,600 undergraduates and 300 graduate students who attend classes in a modern 100,000 square foot state-of-the-art facility. Additional information can be found at <http://www.chapman.edu/argyros>. The position offers a competitive salary and a summer research stipend as well as a discretionary research budget. In addition, Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Duties include establishing or continuing a research program in the candidate's field, teaching, and mentoring students. The standard teaching load is three semester courses per year through the tenure decision. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service. The successful candidate may also be appointed to Chapman University's Economic Science Institute as a Research Associate. Led by Nobel Laureate Vernon Smith, the Economic Science Institute is part of the Argyros School of Business and Economics and houses nationally recognized scholars providing collaborative research opportunities applied to a wide v

Job Description: A doctoral degree is required by August 1, 2018. Qualified applicants must demonstrate the potential for publishing high-quality academic research and excellent teaching. Candidates from all areas of finance will be considered including applicants with an interest in real estate finance. Qualified applicants can electronically submit cover letter, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching evaluations, a research paper and at least three references to: Dr. Marc Weidenmier, Search Chair at jenbrady@chapman.edu. Please use "Finance Position" as the subject of the email. Representatives will be interviewing candidates at the American Economic Association (ASSA) meetings in Philadelphia in early January. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 09/07/2017

Close Day: 12/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Economics, Tenure Track, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: SMITH INSTITUTE FOR POLITICAL ECONOMY AND PHILOSOPHY

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure track, Assistant Professor of Economics in the Argyros School of Business and Economics, to be affiliated with the newly founded Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy, beginning August 2018. The mission of the Smith Institute is to reintegrate the study of the humanities and economics in the spirit of Adam Smith, the author of The Theory of Moral Sentiments and An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, and to recombine research and undergraduate education as a discovery process in the spirit of Vernon Smith, the progenitor of experimental economics. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report,

Back to Top

Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The candidate will develop and maintain an active line of research in their area of specialization and build bridges between the Argyros School of Business and Economics and the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy. Teaching responsibilities will include undergraduate courses in intermediate microeconomics and other upper and lower division courses co-taught with other Smith Institute faculty in English and Philosophy. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: Candidates will have a Ph.D. in Economics or related field and will show evidence of excellent teaching and an active research agenda. The area of specialization for the appointment is political economy, culture and economics, or experimental economics. The ideal candidate should have knowledge of classical political economy (Adam Smith), applied game theory, and teaching experience in principles of microeconomics or intermediate microeconomics. The area of competence is open. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, and three letters of recommendation with contact information to: Dr. Erik Kimbrough, Search Committee Chair Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy Chapman University at sanordrum@chapman.edu Please use "Assistant Professor of Economics" in the email subject line. Applicants should be sure to identify their fit with the Smith Institute's mission. A complete application file must be received by November 1, 2017 to be considered. Salary is commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 08/02/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Economics, Tenure Track, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: SMITH INSTITUTE FOR POLITICAL ECONOMY AND PHILOSOPHY

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure track, Assistant Professor of Economics in the Argyros School of Business and Economics, to be affiliated with the newly founded Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy, beginning August 2018. The mission of the Smith Institute is to reintegrate the study of the humanities and economics in the spirit of Adam Smith, the author of The Theory of Moral Sentiments and An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, and to recombine research and undergraduate education as a discovery process in the spirit of Vernon Smith, the progenitor of experimental economics. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The candidate will develop and maintain an active line of research in their area of specialization and build bridges between the Argyros School of Business and Economics and the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy. Teaching responsibilities will include undergraduate courses in intermediate microeconomics and other upper and lower division courses co-taught with other Smith Institute faculty in English and Philosophy. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: Candidates will have a Ph.D. in Economics or related field and will show evidence of excellent teaching and an active research agenda. The area of specialization for the appointment is political economy, culture and economics, or experimental economics. The ideal candidate should have knowledge of classical political economy (Adam Smith), applied game theory, and teaching experience in principles of microeconomics or intermediate microeconomics. The area of competence is open. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, and three letters of recommendation with contact information to: Dr. Erik Kimbrough, Search Committee Chair Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy Chapman University at sanordrum@chapman.edu Please use "Assistant Professor of Economics" in the email subject line. Applicants should be sure to identify their fit with the Smith Institute's mission. A complete application file must be received by November 1, 2017 to be considered. Salary is commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 08/02/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

Back to Top

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of English, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

Job Information: The English Department, within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences, at Chapman University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor in Literature or Rhetoric, beginning August 2018. Chapman University's English Department offers an undergraduate major that integrates literature and rhetoric, and an MA/MFA dual degree program at the graduate level. We particularly welcome candidates whose scholarship and teaching will integrate and/or connect literature/rhetoric and creative/critical work and further the department's commitment to diversity and inclusion. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. Tenure-track faculty members are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly/creative activity, teaching, and service. The faculty member will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, supervise student theses, and maintain active research and publication agendas.

Job Description: Requirements include a Ph.D. in English, Comparative Literature, Rhetoric or a related field by August 2018. We are seek candidates with a specialization in Medieval Studies OR Twentieth-Century/First-Century Studies (with a focus on Latinx Studies, African American/African Diasporic Studies, or Native American Studies). Expertise in one or more of the following is also welcome: critical theory, global/post-colonial approaches, disability studies, composition studies, critical race studies, ecocriticism, translation studies, book history/media theory, gender and sexuality studies, creative writing, or digital humanities. We are especially interested in candidates with interdisciplinary approaches and whose research spans fields or genres. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of interest, faculty application and curriculum vitae to: Dr. Joanna Levin, Search Chair at laakso@chapman.edu Please use "English Faculty Position" as the email subject line. Applications submitted by November 1, 2017 will receive first consideration. Writing samples and dossiers will be requested only after initial review of applications and CVs by the search committee. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 09/07/2017

Close Day: 10/31/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of English, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

Job Information: The English Department, within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences, at Chapman University invites applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor in Literature or Rhetoric, beginning August 2018. Chapman University's English Department offers an undergraduate major that integrates literature and rhetoric, and an MA/MFA dual degree program at the graduate level. We particularly welcome candidates whose scholarship and teaching will integrate and/or connect literature/rhetoric and creative/critical work and further the department's commitment to diversity and inclusion. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. Tenure-track faculty members are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly/creative activity, teaching, and service. The faculty member will teach undergraduate and graduate courses, supervise student theses, and maintain active research and publication agendas.

Job Description: Requirements include a Ph.D. in English, Comparative Literature, Rhetoric or a related field by August 2018. We are seek candidates with a specialization in Medieval Studies OR Twentieth-Century/First-Century Studies (with a focus on Latinx Studies, African American/African Diasporic Studies, or Native American Studies). Expertise in one or more of the following is also welcome: critical theory, global/post-colonial approaches, disability studies, composition studies, critical race studies, ecocriticism, translation studies, book history/media theory, gender and sexuality studies, creative writing, or digital humanities. We are especially interested in candidates with interdisciplinary approaches and whose research spans fields or genres. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of interest, faculty application and curriculum vitae to: Dr. Joanna Levin, Search Chair at laakso@chapman.edu Please use "English Faculty Position" as the email subject line. Applications submitted by November 1, 2017 will receive first consideration. Writing samples and dossiers will be requested only after initial review of applications and CVs by the search committee. Salary is competitive and commensurate with experience. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Back to Top

Open Day: 09/07/2017

Close Day: 10/31/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Organic Chemistry, Tenure Track, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Job Information: Schmid College of Science and Technology (SCST) at Chapman University seeks applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Organic Chemistry, effective Fall 2018. Chapman University offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition for its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the Schmid College of Science & Technology is available at <http://www.chapman.edu/SCST>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> The candidate will teach in the introductory level organic chemistry sequence and upper division chemistry electives. The candidate is also expected to establish a successful research program with undergraduate student involvement. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: Requirements include a Ph.D. in chemistry, with subsequent specialization in Organic Chemistry. The successful candidate will have a strong research record, excellent teaching skills, and an interest in mentoring undergraduate student researchers. Qualified candidates should submit electronically submit: a faculty employment application, a cover letter that clearly articulates how the candidate envisions contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusivity inclusion missions of Chapman University, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy statement, research statement, and three letters of recommendation to: Dr. Warren de Bruyn, Search Chair C/O Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9468> Application review will begin October 1, 2017. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 10/01/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Organic Chemistry, Tenure Track, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Job Information: Schmid College of Science and Technology (SCST) at Chapman University seeks applicants for the position of Assistant Professor of Organic Chemistry, effective Fall 2018. Chapman University offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition for its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the Schmid College of Science & Technology is available at <http://www.chapman.edu/SCST>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> The candidate will teach in the introductory level organic chemistry sequence and upper division chemistry electives. The candidate is also expected to establish a successful research program with undergraduate student involvement. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: Requirements include a Ph.D. in chemistry, with subsequent specialization in Organic Chemistry. The successful candidate will have a strong research record, excellent teaching skills, and an interest in mentoring undergraduate student researchers. Qualified candidates should submit electronically submit: a faculty employment application, a cover letter that clearly articulates how the candidate envisions contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusivity inclusion missions of Chapman University, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy statement, research statement, and three letters of recommendation to: Dr. Warren de Bruyn, Search Chair C/O Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9468> Application review will begin October 1, 2017. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Back to Top

Open Day: 10/01/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant/Associate Professor of Economics, Tenure Track, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: SMITH INSTITUTE FOR POLITICAL ECONOMY AND PHILOSOPHY

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure track/tenured Assistant/Associate Professor of Economics in the Argyros School of Business and Economics, to be affiliated with the newly founded Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy, beginning August 2018. The mission of the Smith Institute is to reintegrate the study of the humanities and economics in the spirit of Adam Smith, the author of The Theory of Moral Sentiments and An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, and to recombine research and undergraduate education as a discovery process in the spirit of Vernon Smith, the progenitor of experimental economics. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The candidate will develop and maintain an active line of research in their area of specialization and build bridges between the Argyros School of Business and Economics, the Institute for the Study of Religion, Economics, and Society, and the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy. Teaching responsibilities will include undergraduate courses in economic history and other upper and lower division courses co-taught with other Smith Institute faculty in English and Philosophy. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: Candidates will have a Ph.D. in Economics or its equivalent and will show evidence of excellent teaching and an active research agenda. The area of specialization for the appointment is economic history. The ideal candidate should have knowledge of classical political economy (Adam Smith). The area of competence is open. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, and three letters of recommendation with contact information to: Dr. Jared Rubin, Search Committee Chair Chapman University at sanordrum@chapman.edu Please use "Assistant/Associate Professor of Economics: Economic History" in the email subject line. Applicants should be sure to identify their fit with the Smith Institute's mission. A complete application file must be received by November 1, 2017 to be considered. Salary is commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 09/14/2017

Close Day: 11/03/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant/Associate Professor of Economics, Tenure Track, Fall 2018

DEPARTMENT: SMITH INSTITUTE FOR POLITICAL ECONOMY AND PHILOSOPHY

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure track/tenured Assistant/Associate Professor of Economics in the Argyros School of Business and Economics, to be affiliated with the newly founded Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy, beginning August 2018. The mission of the Smith Institute is to reintegrate the study of the humanities and economics in the spirit of Adam Smith, the author of The Theory of Moral Sentiments and An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, and to recombine research and undergraduate education as a discovery process in the spirit of Vernon Smith, the progenitor of experimental economics. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The candidate will develop and maintain an active line of research in their area of specialization and build bridges between the Argyros School of Business and Economics, the Institute for the Study of Religion, Economics, and Society, and the Smith Institute for Political Economy and Philosophy. Teaching responsibilities will include undergraduate courses in economic history and other upper and lower division courses co-taught with other Smith Institute faculty in English and Philosophy. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their research/scholarly activity, teaching and service.

Job Description: Candidates will have a Ph.D. in Economics or its equivalent and will show evidence of excellent teaching and an active research agenda. The area of specialization for the appointment is economic history. The ideal candidate should have knowledge of classical political economy (Adam Smith). The area of competence is open. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, faculty employment application, curriculum vitae, teaching portfolio, and three letters of recommendation with contact information to: Dr. Jared Rubin, Search Committee Chair Chapman University at sanordrum@chapman.edu Please use "Assistant/Associate Professor of Economics: Economic History" in the email subject line. Applicants should be sure to identify their fit with the Smith Institute's mission. A complete application file must be received by November 1, 2017 to be considered. Salary is commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 09/14/2017

Close Day: 11/03/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Pharmacy Practice

DEPARTMENT: PHARMACY PRACTICE

Job Information: The Department of Pharmacy Practice within Chapman University School of Pharmacy (CUSP) seeks two applicants for a 12-month faculty position. This position reports to the Department Chair of Pharmacy Practice in consultation with the Assistant Dean of Experiential Education. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. Located on the Chapman University Rinker Health Sciences Campus in Irvine, California, CUSP will engage students in science-based, personalized, interdisciplinary education and training. The Health Sciences Campus is strategically located near a number of biopharmaceutical, diagnostics, and medical devices companies. We were recently accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. We are currently working toward accreditation of our new Doctor of Pharmacy program by the Accreditation Council for Pharmaceutical Education. Current accreditation information can be found at <https://www.chapman.edu/pharmacy/accreditation.aspx>. The holder of this position is not expected to maintain a clinical site. Responsibilities include: 1. Develop, coordinate, oversee and deliver innovative didactic and experiential education in the Doctor of Pharmacy Program as assigned by the Department Chair. 2. Engage in scholarly activities, such as the scholarship of teaching and learning, in support of the School's research and innovation mission 3. Serve as a student advisor. 4. Serve on School, Department, University committees. 5. Actively participate in professional organizations and community outreach to promote CUSP.

Job Description: Doctor of Pharmacy degree and current California pharmacist licensure or eligible for licensure in 6 months are required. Post-doctoral residency training and/or fellowship or equivalent experience in acute care or ambulatory care is highly preferred. Board certification is highly desirable. Records of or potential for accomplishment in scholarly activities, teaching, and service eligible for academic appointment of Assistant/Associate/or Full Professor is required. Active engagement in professional organization is desirable. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, curriculum vita, and a list of three current references including their contact information to: Dr. Albert Bach Pharmacy Practice Experiential Educator Faculty Search Chair pharmacyphp@chapman.edu Please add "Pharmacy Practice EE Faculty Position" in the subject line. The appointment and rank will be commensurate with experience and academic credentials. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 07/14/2017

Close Day: 11/26/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Pharmacy Practice

DEPARTMENT: PHARMACY PRACTICE

Job Information: The Department of Pharmacy Practice within Chapman University School of Pharmacy (CUSP) seeks two applicants for a 12-month faculty position. This position reports to the Department Chair of Pharmacy Practice in consultation with the Assistant Dean of Experiential Education. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. Located on the Chapman University Rinker Health

Back to Top

Sciences Campus in Irvine, California, CUSP will engage students in science-based, personalized, interdisciplinary education and training. The Health Sciences Campus is strategically located near a number of biopharmaceutical, diagnostics, and medical devices companies. We were recently accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. We are currently working toward accreditation of our new Doctor of Pharmacy program by the Accreditation Council for Pharmaceutical Education. Current accreditation information can be found at <https://www.chapman.edu/pharmacy/accreditation.aspx>. The holder of this position is not expected to maintain a clinical site. Responsibilities include: 1. Develop, coordinate, oversee and deliver innovative didactic and experiential education in the Doctor of Pharmacy Program as assigned by the Department Chair. 2. Engage in scholarly activities, such as the scholarship of teaching and learning, in support of the School's research and innovation mission 3. Serve as a student advisor. 4. Serve on School, Department, University committees. 5. Actively participate in professional organizations and community outreach to promote CUSP.

Job Description: Doctor of Pharmacy degree and current California pharmacist licensure or eligible for licensure in 6 months are required. Post-doctoral residency training and/or fellowship or equivalent experience in acute care or ambulatory care is highly preferred. Board certification is highly desirable. Records of or potential for accomplishment in scholarly activities, teaching, and service eligible for academic appointment of Assistant/Associate/or Full Professor is required. Active engagement in professional organization is desirable. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, curriculum vita, and a list of three current references including their contact information to: Dr. Albert Bach Pharmacy Practice Experiential Educator Faculty Search Chair pharmacyphp@chapman.edu Please add "Pharmacy Practice EE Faculty Position" in the subject line. The appointment and rank will be commensurate with experience and academic credentials. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 07/14/2017

Close Day: 11/26/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Lecturer of Practice Foundations: Transactions, Spring 2018

DEPARTMENT: FOWLER SCHOOL OF LAW

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a Part-Time Lecturer of Practice Foundations: Transactions for the Spring 2018 semester. Successful candidates will teach one 3-unit section of the required 2L course, Practice Foundations: Transactions. Practice Foundations: Transactions is a small-section course that introduces students to the practice of transactional law by exploring the role of lawyers in executing business-related transactions. Students acquire a foundation for practice through participation in exercises and simulated transactions. Students also practice communicating with and advising clients, drafting documents, dealing with other attorneys, and handling the intricacies of transactions. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The Dale E. Fowler School of Law offers a JD and LLM degrees, as well as JD/MBA with Argyros Business School and JD/MFA with the Dodge School. The Law School currently has 450 JD law students who attend classes in a modern 100,000 square foot state-of-the-art Kennedy Hall. Additional information can be found at <https://www.chapman.edu/law/index.aspx>. Teach one section of Practice Foundations: Transactions.

Job Description: JD degree from an ABA accredited law school and a successful background in transactional practice. Application review begins immediately and continues until the position is filled. Submit cover letter, faculty application, and resume electronically to: Marisa Cianciarulo, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, cianciar@chapman.edu. Please use "Lecturer of Law – PFT" as the subject of the email. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 09/19/2017

Close Day: 11/26/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Lecturer of Practice Foundations: Transactions, Spring 2018

DEPARTMENT: FOWLER SCHOOL OF LAW

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a Part-Time Lecturer of Practice Foundations: Transactions for the Spring 2018 semester. Successful candidates will teach one 3-unit section of the required 2L course, Practice Foundations: Transactions. Practice Foundations: Transactions is a small-section course that introduces students to the practice of transactional law by exploring the role of lawyers in executing business-related transactions. Students acquire a foundation for practice through participation in exercises and simulated transactions. Students also practice communicating with and advising clients, drafting documents, dealing with other attorneys, and handling the intricacies of transactions. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The Dale E. Fowler School of Law offers a JD and LLM degrees, as well as JD/MBA with Argyros Business School and JD/MFA with the Dodge School. The Law School currently has 450 JD law students who attend classes in a modern 100,000 square foot state-of-the-art Kennedy Hall. Additional information can be found at <https://www.chapman.edu/law/index.aspx>. Teach one section of Practice Foundations: Transactions.

Back to Top

Job Description: JD degree from an ABA accredited law school and a successful background in transactional practice. Application review begins immediately and continues until the position is filled. Submit cover letter, faculty application, and resume electronically to: Marisa Cianciarulo, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, cianciar@chapman.edu. Please use "Lecturer of Law – PFT" as the subject of the email. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 09/19/2017

Close Day: 11/26/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Psychology, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: PSYCHOLOGY

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for an Assistant Professor of Psychology (tenure-track) with a focus on Health in the Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences beginning August 2018. Chapman University is located in the heart of Orange County, California and offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. Develop and maintain a productive and innovative line of research with strong potential for or demonstration of extramural funding in health psychology (broadly defined). Specific area of research is open. For example, applicants with a program of research focusing on biobehavioral health, psychoneuroendocrinology/immunology, interpersonal processes and health, emotions and health, maternal-child health, aging, Darwinian medicine, eating behaviors, behavioral interventions, health disparities, or other related areas are encouraged to apply. The applicant is expected to join the newly established Center for Excellence in Biopsychosocial Approaches to Health (CEBAH) within the Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences at Chapman University <https://www.chapman.edu/crean/research-centers/index.aspx>). The teaching load for this position is 2-2 and includes teaching undergraduate courses in areas of expertise using innovative and effective methods of teaching. Candidates will also advise undergraduate students and supervise student research projects. Chapman currently has a system through which mentoring individual student research projects can be applied towards teaching load. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration Job Description: A Ph.D. from an accredited program in psychology or related field; evidence of excellence in research and teaching; competence in quantitative methods of research, statistics/biostatistics, and research design. Specific area of disciplinary expertise should be related to solving problems in health sciences. All applications submitted by November 3, 2017 will receive full consideration. Review will continue until the position is filled. Qualified applicants should electronically submit all of the following documents: 1) Cover letter 2) Faculty employment application 3) Curriculum Vita 4) Research statement 5) Teaching statement 6) Official copies of two or more recent course evaluations 7) Summary of courses taught, courses interested in teaching, research mentoring experiences, and numerical summary of student teaching evaluation ratings (as a separate document or as part of the teaching statement) 8) Reprints of 3-4 publications or other scholarly work 9) Three letters of reference Please submit them to: Dr. Laura Glynn, Search Committee Chair C/O Academic Jobs Online <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9747> Salary will be commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final funding approval.

Open Day: 09/14/2017

Close Day: 11/03/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Psychology, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: PSYCHOLOGY

Back to Top

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for an Assistant Professor of Psychology (tenure-track) with a focus on Health in the Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences beginning August 2018. Chapman University is located in the heart of Orange County, California and offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. Develop and maintain a productive and innovative line of research with strong potential for or demonstration of extramural funding in health psychology (broadly defined). Specific area of research is open. For example, applicants with a program of research focusing on biobehavioral health, psychoneuroendocrinology/immunology, interpersonal processes and health, emotions and health, maternal-child health, aging, Darwinian medicine, eating behaviors, behavioral interventions, health disparities, or other related areas are encouraged to apply. The applicant is expected to join the newly established Center for Excellence in Biopsychosocial Approaches to Health (CEBAH) within the Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences at Chapman University <https://www.chapman.edu/crean/research-centers/index.aspx>. The teaching load for this position is 2-2 and includes teaching undergraduate courses in areas of expertise using innovative and effective methods of teaching. Candidates will also advise undergraduate students and supervise student research projects. Chapman currently has a system through which mentoring individual student research projects can be applied towards teaching load. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration.

Job Description: A Ph.D. from an accredited program in psychology or related field; evidence of excellence in research and teaching; competence in quantitative methods of research, statistics/biostatistics, and research design. Specific area of disciplinary expertise should be related to solving problems in health sciences. All applications submitted by November 3, 2017 will receive full consideration. Review will continue until the position is filled. Qualified applicants should electronically submit all of the following documents: 1) Cover letter 2) Faculty employment application 3) Curriculum Vita 4) Research statement 5) Teaching statement 6) Official copies of two or more recent course evaluations 7) Summary of courses taught, courses interested in teaching, research mentoring experiences, and numerical summary of student teaching evaluation ratings (as a separate document or as part of the teaching statement) 8) Reprints of 3-4 publications or other scholarly work 9) Three letters of reference Please submit them to: Dr. Laura Glynn, Search Committee Chair C/O Academic Jobs Online <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9747> Salary will be commensurate with experience. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final funding approval.

Open Day: 09/14/2017

Close Day: 11/03/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Photography, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ART

Job Information: Chapman University's Art Department seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Photography within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Responsibilities include teaching photographic courses at the undergraduate level, maintaining an active exhibition/studio practice that evidences engagement in contemporary photographic practices and participating in service. The successful applicant will - * Teach courses that may include: foundation sections of analog and/or digital photography and advanced sections of special topics and/or advanced studio photographic practices. * Serve as program lead of the photography area which includes the oversight and hiring of part time faculty, faculty lab tech and student workers. * Demonstrate commitment to building relationships and opportunities for our students outside the classroom, within the contemporary world. Examples include: internships at galleries or with artists, curriculum development, travel courses, mentorship towards graduate school and entry into the professional field. * Contribute to th

Job Description: Qualifications include: An active and notable national / international exhibition record. MA / MFA degree or equivalent. Experience teaching both analog and digital photography at the University level. Technical and conceptual expertise in both analog and digital photography with an emphasis on contemporary studio practices, and a commitment to integrating topics of diversity in their teaching and scholarship. Interest in contributing to the development and expansion of a diverse, interdisciplinary program within the art department. Ability to teach courses for a studio art BFA program at the foundation level as well as upper division seminars, photographic history, and interdisciplinary topics with the field of contemporary art. Qualified applicants must electronically submit a cover letter, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, contact information for three professional references, 20 images in a second email, and 20 student images to: Micol Hebron, Search Chair at hebron@chapman.edu and Jeanie Randazzo, Department Search Assistant at randazzo@chapman.edu. Please use "Photography Faculty Position" as the subject of the email. We welcome this information in three different emails; one being the standard items, the second 20 of your images and the third and final being your student images. Please label them accordingly (1 of 3, 2 of 3, and 3 of 3). Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is conditional upon final budget approval.

Back to Top

Open Day: 10/05/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Photography, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ART

Job Information: Chapman University's Art Department seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Photography within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Responsibilities include teaching photographic courses at the undergraduate level, maintaining an active exhibition/studio practice that evidences engagement in contemporary photographic practices and participating in service. The successful applicant will - * Teach courses that may include: foundation sections of analog and/or digital photography and advanced sections of special topics and/or advanced studio photographic practices. * Serve as program lead of the photography area which includes the oversight and hiring of part time faculty, faculty lab tech and student workers. * Demonstrate commitment to building relationships and opportunities for our students outside the classroom, within the contemporary world. Examples include: internships at galleries or with artists, curriculum development, travel courses, mentorship towards graduate school and entry into the professional field. * Contribute to th

Job Description: Qualifications include: An active and notable national / international exhibition record. MA / MFA degree or equivalent. Experience teaching both analog and digital photography at the University level. Technical and conceptual expertise in both analog and digital photography with an emphasis on contemporary studio practices, and a commitment to integrating topics of diversity in their teaching and scholarship. Interest in contributing to the development and expansion of a diverse, interdisciplinary program within the art department. Ability to teach courses for a studio art BFA program at the foundation level as well as upper division seminars, photographic history, and interdisciplinary topics with the field of contemporary art. Qualified applicants must electronically submit a cover letter, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, contact information for three professional references, 20 images in a second email, and 20 student images to: Micol Hebron, Search Chair at hebron@chapman.edu and Jeanie Randazzo, Department Search Assistant at randazzo@chapman.edu. Please use "Photography Faculty Position" as the subject of the email. We welcome this information in three different emails; one being the standard items, the second 20 of your images and the third and final being your student images. Please label them accordingly (1 of 3, 2 of 3, and 3 of 3). Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is conditional upon final budget approval.

Open Day: 10/05/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Tenured Associate Professor of History, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: HISTORY

Back to Top

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a tenured Associate Professor in the History Department within Wilkinson College Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the History Department and Wilkinson College of Humanities and Social Sciences is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The successful candidate would teach undergraduate and graduate classes, and also have administrative responsibilities in the Department's Masters of Arts in War & Society. Details about the MA in War & Society are available at <https://www.chapman.edu/wilkinson/graduate-studies/ma-warsociety.aspx>.

Job Description: A doctoral degree, strong publication record, evidence of ongoing scholarly productivity, evidence of effective teaching, and commitment to a student-centered learning environment and cultural diversity are required. The History Department seeks applicants with research and teaching interests in the history of War & Society. War and Society expands the study of warfare beyond its military, diplomatic, and political dimensions by examining the social and cultural aspects of how societies go to war, experience war, and its consequences. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of intent, faculty application, curriculum vita, and a list with the names and contact information of three references to: Dr. Jennifer Keene, Search Chair at slaird@chapman.edu Please use "History Position" as the email subject line. A short-listed candidates will be asked to submit additional materials, including references. Application review begins December 1 and will continue until the position is filled. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final budget approval.

Open Day: 09/14/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Tenured Associate Professor of History, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: HISTORY

Job Information: Chapman University seeks applications for a tenured Associate Professor in the History Department within Wilkinson College Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the History Department and Wilkinson College of Humanities and Social Sciences is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The successful candidate would teach undergraduate and graduate classes, and also have administrative responsibilities in the Department's Masters of Arts in War & Society. Details about the MA in War & Society are available at <https://www.chapman.edu/wilkinson/graduate-studies/ma-warsociety.aspx>.

Job Description: A doctoral degree, strong publication record, evidence of ongoing scholarly productivity, evidence of effective teaching, and commitment to a student-centered learning environment and cultural diversity are required. The History Department seeks applicants with research and teaching interests in the history of War & Society. War and Society expands the study of warfare beyond its military, diplomatic, and political dimensions by examining the social and cultural aspects of how societies go to war, experience war, and its consequences. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a letter of intent, faculty application, curriculum vita, and a list with the names and contact information of three references to: Dr. Jennifer Keene, Search Chair at slaird@chapman.edu Please use "History Position" as the email subject line. A short-listed candidates will be asked to submit additional materials, including references. Application review begins December 1 and will continue until the position is filled. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final budget approval.

Open Day: 09/14/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Clinical Assistant Professor of Finance and Management Science, January 2018

DEPARTMENT: ARGYROS SCHOOL OF BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

Back to Top

Job Information: The George L. Argyros School of Business and Economics at Chapman University invites applications for a Non Tenure Track, Clinical Assistant Professor in the areas of Finance and Management Science, beginning January 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The Argyros School is fully accredited by AACSB and offers bachelor's degrees in business administration, economics, and accounting as well as the MBA and EMBA. The School currently has 1,500 undergraduates and 250 graduate students who attend classes in a modern 100,000 square foot state-of-the-art facility. Additional information can be found at <http://www.chapman.edu/business>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>. Duties include teaching 4 classes a semester.

Job Description: A Ph.d. with a record of scholarly achievement and evidence of teaching excellence are required. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a faculty application, cover letter, curriculum vitae and teaching evaluations to: Dr. Candace Ybarra, Search Chair at jenbrady@chapman.edu. Please use "NTT – Spring 2018" as the subject of the email. Evaluation of applications will begin upon receipt. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Clinical Assistant Professor of Finance and Management Science, January 2018

DEPARTMENT: ARGYROS SCHOOL OF BUSINESS AND ECONOMICS

Job Information: The George L. Argyros School of Business and Economics at Chapman University invites applications for a Non Tenure Track, Clinical Assistant Professor in the areas of Finance and Management Science, beginning January 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The Argyros School is fully accredited by AACSB and offers bachelor's degrees in business administration, economics, and accounting as well as the MBA and EMBA. The School currently has 1,500 undergraduates and 250 graduate students who attend classes in a modern 100,000 square foot state-of-the-art facility. Additional information can be found at <http://www.chapman.edu/business>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>. Duties include teaching 4 classes a semester.

Job Description: A Ph.d. with a record of scholarly achievement and evidence of teaching excellence are required. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a faculty application, cover letter, curriculum vitae and teaching evaluations to: Dr. Candace Ybarra, Search Chair at jenbrady@chapman.edu. Please use "NTT – Spring 2018" as the subject of the email. Evaluation of applications will begin upon receipt. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Professor of Computer Science and Mathematics, Tenured, Spring 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE

Job Information: Schmid College of Science and Technology (SCST) at Chapman University seeks applicants for the position of Professor of Computer Science and Mathematics, effective Spring 2018. Chapman University offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition for its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the Schmid College of Science & Technology is available at <http://www.chapman.edu/SCST>. Schmid College and the University value personalized faculty collaboration with undergraduate and graduate students. The new faculty member will be expected to advise, mentor, and encourage undergraduate and graduate students with regard to curriculum, research projects, internship opportunities, and career possibilities. As a Full Professor, significant service, including mentoring junior faculty, is expected. Tenured faculty are expected to maintain an active research agenda.

The successful candidate will teach 2 courses per semester. Courses may include Programming Languages (CPSC 354), Compiler Construction (CPSC 402), and Formal Methods in Software Engineering (SE 420).

Job Description: A Ph.D. degree in computer science, mathematics, computational science, data science, or software engineering is required. Applicants for this senior position are expected to have a strong publication record in theoretical computer science, a history of successfully mentoring students at the graduate and undergraduate level, and a desire to engage in university-level service. Whereas we welcome applicants from all disciplines in these fields, preference will be given to candidates with a background in theoretical computer science, such as automata/complexity, programming language design, foundations of computation and formal software verification. Candidates should electronically submit a cover letter, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy statement, research statement, and three letters of recommendation to: Dr. Erik Linstead, Search Committee Chair Via Academic Jobs Online <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9239> In the cover letter, applicants should clearly articulate how they envision contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusivity missions of Chapman University. Application review will begin immediately. If you have questions about this position please email SchmidCollege@Chapman.edu. Please use "Computer Science and Mathematics Position" in the email subject line. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 06/23/2017

Close Day: 11/05/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Professor of Computer Science and Mathematics, Tenured, Spring 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE

Job Information: Schmid College of Science and Technology (SCST) at Chapman University seeks applicants for the position of Professor of Computer Science and Mathematics, effective Spring 2018. Chapman University offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition for its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the Schmid College of Science & Technology is available at <http://www.chapman.edu/SCST>. Schmid College and the University value personalized faculty collaboration with undergraduate and graduate students. The new faculty member will be expected to advise, mentor, and encourage undergraduate and graduate students with regard to curriculum, research projects, internship opportunities, and career possibilities. As a Full Professor, significant service, including mentoring junior faculty, is expected. Tenured faculty are expected to maintain an active research agenda. The successful candidate will teach 2 courses per semester. Courses may include Programming Languages (CPSC 354), Compiler Construction (CPSC 402), and Formal Methods in Software Engineering (SE 420).

Job Description: A Ph.D. degree in computer science, mathematics, computational science, data science, or software engineering is required. Applicants for this senior position are expected to have a strong publication record in theoretical computer science, a history of successfully mentoring students at the graduate and undergraduate level, and a desire to engage in university-level service. Whereas we welcome applicants from all disciplines in these fields, preference will be given to candidates with a background in theoretical computer science, such as automata/complexity, programming language design, foundations of computation and formal software verification. Candidates should electronically submit a cover letter, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy statement, research statement, and three letters of recommendation to: Dr. Erik Linstead, Search Committee Chair Via Academic Jobs Online <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9239> In the cover letter, applicants should clearly articulate how they envision contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusivity missions of Chapman University. Application review will begin immediately. If you have questions about this position please email SchmidCollege@Chapman.edu. Please use "Computer Science and Mathematics Position" in the email subject line. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 06/23/2017

Close Day: 11/05/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Teacher Education, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ATTALLAH COLLEGE OF EDUCATIONAL STUDIES

Job Information: The Donna Ford Attallah College of Educational Studies at Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Teacher Education, with expertise in Science Education in their Teacher Education Program, effective August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>. The Donna Ford Attallah College of Educational Studies houses both undergraduate and graduate programs in teacher education. At the graduate level, our credential-embedded Master of Arts program prepares K-12 teachers to work with children of varied cultural backgrounds. In addition, we offer an integrated 4+1 credential-embedded program starting at the undergraduate level that leads to a Master of Arts in Curriculum and Instruction. All credential programs recognize the need to develop teachers who can apply research-based approaches to teaching while maintaining the social consciousness to address inequities in current educational structures. The programs seek to prepare professionals who are forward thinking and envision the world of education in new and dynamic ways. We are committed to providing Chapman University students with a dynamic and intellectually challenging liberal arts-based education that promotes critical social transformation among our students and in schools and society. The Donna Ford Attallah College of Educational Studies offers Master of Arts degrees in Teaching, Curriculum

Back to Top

Job Description: Required Qualifications: * An earned doctorate in Science Education (or with Science Education emphasis), Learning Sciences, or related fields. * Desire to create innovative Science Education/STEM programs and experiences for pre-service and in-service teachers. * Ability to teach a range of teacher education courses in addition to science-specific courses. * Proven commitment to collaboration. * Experience with student-centered environments. * Understanding of educating for a culturally diverse society. Desirable Qualifications: * A valid Single Subject Credential (or the equivalent) in one of the science subjects at State or National Board level. * Evidence of effective teaching in higher education. * A demonstrated record or promise of sustainable and significant research and scholarship. * Experience in PK-12 schools as an educator. * Experience in multiple science content preparations (i.e., biological, physical, geo science). * Experience in integrating science into multiple core content areas (e.g., language arts, social science, and mathematics). * Familiarity with Common Core standards and Next Generation Science Standards, * Expertise in cross-disciplinary methods of examining learning processes and environments. * Active involvement in professional organizations. * An ability to design and implement program assessment tools. * Demonstrated commitment to collaborative research. * Experience using technology to enhance educational environments. * Experience with emergent bilingual learners and bilingual education. * Speaks Spanish and has first-hand experience with Latinx immigrant students and children of immigrants who represent a strong influence in the surrounding communities. Preference may be given to candidates with a background in teaching science methods at multiple levels (i.e., elementary, middle, and high school). Scholarly interests in, but not limited to, learning sciences, environmental science and urban sciences, PK-12 student outcomes, teacher preparation, teacher professional development, urban education, school-based research, school-community connections, inclusive schooling, bilingual education, Universal Design for Learning, and/or second language acquisition are desirable. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a faculty application, cover letter detailing qualifications related to the position description, curriculum vitae and one sample of research publications/submissions, and contact information for three references to: Dr. Meghan Cosier and Dr. Lilia Monzo, Search Committee Co-Chairs c/o Zac Nguyen, Search Coordinator, at znguyen@Chapman.edu Please use "Teacher Education Position" as the subject of the email. Application review will begin in November. Salary will be commensurate with experience and qualifications. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Inquiries: All inquiries about the position should be directed to Zac Nguyen at znguyen@Chapman.edu.

Open Day: 10/05/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Teacher Education, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ATTALLAH COLLEGE OF EDUCATIONAL STUDIES

Job Information: The Donna Ford Attallah College of Educational Studies at Chapman University seeks applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor of Teacher Education, with expertise in Science Education in their Teacher Education Program, effective August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>. The Donna Ford Attallah College of Educational Studies houses both undergraduate and graduate programs in teacher education. At the graduate level, our credential-embedded Master of Arts program prepares K-12 teachers to work with children of varied cultural backgrounds. In addition, we offer an integrated 4+1 credential-embedded program starting at the undergraduate level that leads to a Master of Arts in Curriculum and Instruction. All credential programs recognize the need to develop teachers who can apply research-based approaches to teaching while maintaining the social consciousness to address inequities in current educational structures. The programs seek to prepare professionals who are forward thinking and envision the world of education in new and dynamic ways. We are committed to providing Chapman University students with a dynamic and intellectually challenging liberal arts-based education that promotes critical social transformation among our students and in schools and society. The Donna Ford Attallah College of Educational Studies offers Master of Arts degrees in Teaching, Curriculum

Back to Top

Job Description: Required Qualifications: * An earned doctorate in Science Education (or with Science Education emphasis), Learning Sciences, or related fields. * Desire to create innovative Science Education/STEM programs and experiences for pre-service and in-service teachers. * Ability to teach a range of teacher education courses in addition to science-specific courses. * Proven commitment to collaboration. * Experience with student-centered environments. * Understanding of educating for a culturally diverse society. Desirable Qualifications: * A valid Single Subject Credential (or the equivalent) in one of the science subjects at State or National Board level. * Evidence of effective teaching in higher education. * A demonstrated record or promise of sustainable and significant research and scholarship. * Experience in PK-12 schools as an educator. * Experience in multiple science content preparations (i.e., biological, physical, geo science). * Experience in integrating science into multiple core content areas (e.g., language arts, social science, and mathematics). * Familiarity with Common Core standards and Next Generation Science Standards, * Expertise in cross-disciplinary methods of examining learning processes and environments. * Active involvement in professional organizations. * An ability to design and implement program assessment tools. * Demonstrated commitment to collaborative research. * Experience using technology to enhance educational environments. * Experience with emergent bilingual learners and bilingual education. * Speaks Spanish and has first-hand experience with Latinx immigrant students and children of immigrants who represent a strong influence in the surrounding communities. Preference may be given to candidates with a background in teaching science methods at multiple levels (i.e., elementary, middle, and high school). Scholarly interests in, but not limited to, learning sciences, environmental science and urban sciences, PK-12 student outcomes, teacher preparation, teacher professional development, urban education, school-based research, school-community connections, inclusive schooling, bilingual education, Universal Design for Learning, and/or second language acquisition are desirable. Qualified applicants should electronically submit a faculty application, cover letter detailing qualifications related to the position description, curriculum vitae and one sample of research publications/submissions, and contact information for three references to: Dr. Meghan Cosier and Dr. Lilia Monzo, Search Committee Co-Chairs c/o Zac Nguyen, Search Coordinator, at znguyen@Chapman.edu Please use "Teacher Education Position" as the subject of the email. Application review will begin in November. Salary will be commensurate with experience and qualifications. Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Inquiries: All inquiries about the position should be directed to Zac Nguyen at znguyen@Chapman.edu.

Open Day: 10/05/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Photography, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ART

Job Information: Chapman University's Art Department seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Photography within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Responsibilities include teaching photographic courses at the undergraduate level, maintaining an active exhibition/studio practice that evidences engagement in contemporary photographic practices and participating in service. The successful applicant will - * Teach courses that may include: foundation sections of analog and/or digital photography and advanced sections of special topics and/or advanced studio photographic practices. * Serve as program lead of the photography area which includes the oversight and hiring of part time faculty, faculty lab tech and student workers. * Demonstrate commitment to building relationships and opportunities for our students outside the classroom, within the contemporary world. Examples include: internships at galleries or with artists, curriculum development, travel courses, mentorship towards graduate school and entry into the professional field. * Contribute to th

Back to Top

Job Description: Qualifications include: An active and notable national / international exhibition record. MA / MFA degree or equivalent. Experience teaching both analog and digital photography at the University level. Technical and conceptual expertise in both analog and digital photography with an emphasis on contemporary studio practices, and a commitment to integrating topics of diversity in their teaching and scholarship. Interest in contributing to the development and expansion of a diverse, interdisciplinary program within the art department. Ability to teach courses for a studio art BFA program at the foundation level as well as upper division seminars, photographic history, and interdisciplinary topics with the field of contemporary art. Qualified applicants must electronically submit a cover letter, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, contact information for three professional references, 20 images in a second email, and 20 student images to: Micol Hebron, Search Chair at hebron@chapman.edu and Jeanie Randazzo, Department Search Assistant at randazzo@chapman.edu. Please use "Photography Faculty Position" as the subject of the email. We welcome this information in three different emails; one being the standard items, the second 20 of your images and the third and final being your student images. Please label them accordingly (1 of 3, 2 of 3, and 3 of 3). Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is conditional upon final budget approval.

Open Day: 10/05/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Photography, Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: ART

Job Information: Chapman University's Art Department seeks applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Photography within Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences, beginning August 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. We welcome candidates whose experience in teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence. More information about Chapman University is available at <http://www.chapman.edu>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Responsibilities include teaching photographic courses at the undergraduate level, maintaining an active exhibition/studio practice that evidences engagement in contemporary photographic practices and participating in service. The successful applicant will - * Teach courses that may include: foundation sections of analog and/or digital photography and advanced sections of special topics and/or advanced studio photographic practices. * Serve as program lead of the photography area which includes the oversight and hiring of part time faculty, faculty lab tech and student workers. * Demonstrate commitment to building relationships and opportunities for our students outside the classroom, within the contemporary world. Examples include: internships at galleries or with artists, curriculum development, travel courses, mentorship towards graduate school and entry into the professional field. * Contribute to th

Job Description: Qualifications include: An active and notable national / international exhibition record. MA / MFA degree or equivalent. Experience teaching both analog and digital photography at the University level. Technical and conceptual expertise in both analog and digital photography with an emphasis on contemporary studio practices, and a commitment to integrating topics of diversity in their teaching and scholarship. Interest in contributing to the development and expansion of a diverse, interdisciplinary program within the art department. Ability to teach courses for a studio art BFA program at the foundation level as well as upper division seminars, photographic history, and interdisciplinary topics with the field of contemporary art. Qualified applicants must electronically submit a cover letter, faculty application, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy, contact information for three professional references, 20 images in a second email, and 20 student images to: Micol Hebron, Search Chair at hebron@chapman.edu and Jeanie Randazzo, Department Search Assistant at randazzo@chapman.edu. Please use "Photography Faculty Position" as the subject of the email. We welcome this information in three different emails; one being the standard items, the second 20 of your images and the third and final being your student images. Please label them accordingly (1 of 3, 2 of 3, and 3 of 3). Chapman University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a first-time Orange County homebuyer assistance program. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is conditional upon final budget approval.

Open Day: 10/05/2017

Close Day: 11/30/2017

Back to Top

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Instructional Assistant Professor of Mathematics, Spring 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Job Information: Schmid College of Science and Technology (SCST) at Chapman University seeks applicants for the a full-time non-tenure track Instructional Assistant Professor of Mathematics, effective Spring 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and selected pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. Schmid College of Science & Technology offers a B.S. degree in Mathematics, and provides Mathematics instruction for the Chapman University General Education Program and for other degree programs at the University. More information about the Schmid College of Science & Technology is available at <http://www.chapman.edu/SCST>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Duties include teaching four mathematics courses each semester, mentoring students and providing service to the College and to the University.

Job Description: Requirements include a Ph.D. in mathematics or closely related field and evidence of strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. A demonstrated record of excellence in teaching is essential. All areas of mathematics will be considered. Candidates in all disciplines of mathematics are welcome to apply if they can demonstrate a proven history of success in teaching mathematics at the undergraduate level. Candidates should electronically submit, cover letter that clearly articulates how the candidate envisions contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusion missions of Chapman University, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy statement, completed faculty employment application, and contact information for three references to: Dr. Jill Dunham, Search Chair c/o Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9915> Any questions should be directed to SchmidCollege@chapman.edu. Application review will begin October 30, 2017. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with professional experience and qualifications. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final budget approval.

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 10/31/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Instructional Assistant Professor of Mathematics, Spring 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Job Information: Schmid College of Science and Technology (SCST) at Chapman University seeks applicants for the a full-time non-tenure track Instructional Assistant Professor of Mathematics, effective Spring 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and selected pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. Schmid College of Science & Technology offers a B.S. degree in Mathematics, and provides Mathematics instruction for the Chapman University General Education Program and for other degree programs at the University. More information about the Schmid College of Science & Technology is available at <http://www.chapman.edu/SCST>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Duties include teaching four mathematics courses each semester, mentoring students and providing service to the College and to the University.

Job Description: Requirements include a Ph.D. in mathematics or closely related field and evidence of strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. A demonstrated record of excellence in teaching is essential. All areas of mathematics will be considered. Candidates in all disciplines of mathematics are welcome to apply if they can demonstrate a proven history of success in teaching mathematics at the undergraduate level. Candidates should electronically submit, cover letter that clearly articulates how the candidate envisions contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusion missions of Chapman University, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy statement, completed faculty employment application, and contact information for three references to: Dr. Jill Dunham, Search Chair c/o Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9915> Any questions should be directed to SchmidCollege@chapman.edu. Application review will begin October 30, 2017. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with professional experience and qualifications. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final budget approval.

Back to Top

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 10/31/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Instructional Assistant Professor of Mathematics, Spring 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Job Information: Schmid College of Science and Technology (SCST) at Chapman University seeks applicants for the a full-time non-tenure track Instructional Assistant Professor of Mathematics, effective Spring 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and selected pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. Schmid College of Science & Technology offers a B.S. degree in Mathematics, and provides Mathematics instruction for the Chapman University General Education Program and for other degree programs at the University. More information about the Schmid College of Science & Technology is available at <http://www.chapman.edu/SCST>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Duties include teaching four mathematics courses each semester, mentoring students and providing service to the College and to the University.

Job Description: Requirements include a Ph.D. in mathematics or closely related field and evidence of strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. A demonstrated record of excellence in teaching is essential. All areas of mathematics will be considered. Candidates in all disciplines of mathematics are welcome to apply if they can demonstrate a proven history of success in teaching mathematics at the undergraduate level. Candidates should electronically submit, cover letter that clearly articulates how the candidate envisions contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusion missions of Chapman University, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy statement, completed faculty employment application, and contact information for three references to: Dr. Jill Dunham, Search Chair c/o Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9915> Any questions should be directed to SchmidCollege@chapman.edu. Application review will begin October 30, 2017. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with professional experience and qualifications. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final budget approval.

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 10/31/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Instructional Assistant Professor of Mathematics, Spring 2018

DEPARTMENT: SCHMID COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Job Information: Schmid College of Science and Technology (SCST) at Chapman University seeks applicants for the a full-time non-tenure track Instructional Assistant Professor of Mathematics, effective Spring 2018. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, California, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and selected pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked in the top tier of western universities by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. Schmid College of Science & Technology offers a B.S. degree in Mathematics, and provides Mathematics instruction for the Chapman University General Education Program and for other degree programs at the University. More information about the Schmid College of Science & Technology is available at <http://www.chapman.edu/SCST>. The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity/> Duties include teaching four mathematics courses each semester, mentoring students and providing service to the College and to the University.

Job Description: Requirements include a Ph.D. in mathematics or closely related field and evidence of strong commitment to undergraduate teaching. A demonstrated record of excellence in teaching is essential. All areas of mathematics will be considered. Candidates in all disciplines of mathematics are welcome to apply if they can demonstrate a proven history of success in teaching mathematics at the undergraduate level. Candidates should electronically submit, cover letter that clearly articulates how the candidate envisions contributing to the research, educational, and diversity & inclusion missions of Chapman University, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy statement, completed faculty employment application, and contact information for three references to: Dr. Jill Dunham, Search Chair c/o Academic Jobs Online at <https://academicjobsonline.org/ajo/jobs/9915> Any questions should be directed to SchmidCollege@chapman.edu. Application review will begin October 30, 2017. Salary is highly competitive and commensurate with professional experience and qualifications. Successful completion of a background check is required for the final candidate. Note: This position is subject to final budget approval.

Back to Top

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 10/31/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Health Sciences (Public Health/Health Policy), Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: HEALTH SCIENCES AND KINESIOLOGY

Job Information: Chapman University's Crean College of Health & Behavioral Sciences seeks applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position, beginning August 2018, whose primary research is focused in the area of Public Health (broadly), or other related areas. The department of Health Sciences and Kinesiology is housed in the Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked number 5 of regional universities in the western region by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the university and Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences is available at www.chapman.edu The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>. Responsibilities include teaching four courses per academic year, including the Health Science senior capstone course. The successful candidate will develop course(s) in the area of Public Health, within the candidate's area of expertise. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their excellence in research/scholarly activity, teaching, and service.

Job Description: The Department of Health Sciences and Kinesiology is seeking a candidate whose research focuses in the area of Public Health. Specific areas may include, but not limited to, Health Policy, Epidemiology, Health Disparities, Health Economics and/or Global Health. Applicants should possess the following: 1) A PhD in Public Health, or closely related area. 2) An excellent scholarship record appropriate to time since PhD. 3) Proven record, or potential, in obtaining extramural funding. 4) A record of/or demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching is required, along with a commitment to undergraduate personalized education, including engaging undergraduate students in the research process. 5) The ability to effectively communicate research to a broad interdisciplinary audience. 6) Commitment to advancing the research mission of Chapman University through pursuit of external funding and/or interdisciplinary collaborations. Applicants must electronically submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, evidence of effective teaching, and three letters of recommendation. Review of application materials will begin on November 1st. All questions regarding position can be directed to the search committee chair: Dr. Marcia Abbott Search Committee Chair, HSK program dweltly@chapman.edu The University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a housing assistance program. Salary will be commensurate with experience; an excellent benefits package includes medical, dental, and tuition remission programs. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Assistant Professor of Health Sciences (Public Health/Health Policy), Tenure Track, August 2018

DEPARTMENT: HEALTH SCIENCES AND KINESIOLOGY

Job Information: Chapman University's Crean College of Health & Behavioral Sciences seeks applications for a tenure track Assistant Professor position, beginning August 2018, whose primary research is focused in the area of Public Health (broadly), or other related areas. The department of Health Sciences and Kinesiology is housed in the Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences. Chapman University, located in the heart of Orange County, offers traditional undergraduate programs in the arts and sciences and select pre-professional and graduate programs. Ranked number 5 of regional universities in the western region by U.S. News and World Report, Chapman has gained national recognition with its commitment to excellence through research and innovative teaching. More information about the university and Crean College of Health and Behavioral Sciences is available at www.chapman.edu The University is dedicated to enhancing diversity and inclusion in all aspects of recruitment and employment. More information on diversity and inclusion at Chapman University is available at <https://www.chapman.edu/diversity>. Responsibilities include teaching four courses per academic year, including the Health Science senior capstone course. The successful candidate will develop course(s) in the area of Public Health, within the candidate's area of expertise. Tenure track faculty are expected to develop and maintain an active research agenda for future tenure consideration and are evaluated on their excellence in research/scholarly activity, teaching, and service.

Back to Top

Job Description: The Department of Health Sciences and Kinesiology is seeking a candidate whose research focuses in the area of Public Health. Specific areas may include, but not limited to, Health Policy, Epidemiology, Health Disparities, Health Economics and/or Global Health. Applicants should possess the following: 1) A PhD in Public Health, or closely related area. 2) An excellent scholarship record appropriate to time since PhD. 3) Proven record, or potential, in obtaining extramural funding. 4) A record of/or demonstrated commitment to excellence in teaching is required, along with a commitment to undergraduate personalized education, including engaging undergraduate students in the research process. 5) The ability to effectively communicate research to a broad interdisciplinary audience. 6) Commitment to advancing the research mission of Chapman University through pursuit of external funding and/or interdisciplinary collaborations. Applicants must electronically submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, teaching statement, evidence of effective teaching, and three letters of recommendation. Review of application materials will begin on November 1st. All questions regarding position can be directed to the search committee chair: Dr. Marcia Abbott Search Committee Chair, HSK program dweltly@chapman.edu The University offers a relocation expense reimbursement package as well as a housing assistance program. Salary will be commensurate with experience; an excellent benefits package includes medical, dental, and tuition remission programs. Successful completion of a criminal background check is required for the final candidate.

Open Day: 10/04/2017

Close Day: 11/01/2017

Restore back to search

1120 S. Cady Mall, 2nd Floor, Suite A207E, Tempe, AZ 85287-5303 |

Contact AAHHE

Back to Top