WELCOME FROM THE PRESIDENT

It is my distinct pleasure to welcome you and your student to our Chapman Family! At Chapman, we consider parents and families integral partners in our work to provide students with a highly personalized education and prepare them for success in life.

As the parent of both a current Chapman student and two alumni, I have been in your shoes and I know what an exciting time this is for your family. I also know that navigating this new college landscape can be challenging. Rest assured that our staff is eager to help you learn how to support your student and connect you with the many resources and services available to students and families campus wide.

Beyond guiding and supporting your student in the coming years, I encourage you to take an active role in the life of our vibrant intellectual community. Come to events and performances, cheer on our athletics teams, and dive into the incredible things happening across campus every day. I know you’ll find that Chapman is warm and welcoming and that you’ll feel right at home.

When we rally together in support of our students, they can truly accomplish anything imaginable. Again, welcome to the Chapman Family and cheers to the year ahead!

Daniele C. Struppa
President
Chapman University
Dear Chapman parents and families,

Welcome to what I believe will be an exciting year at Chapman University. I look forward to meeting you in person on campus soon. A successful Chapman experience is achieved through a three-way partnership between the student, Chapman and the family. Indeed, we all have the same goal: helping your student be successful. As Chapman faculty and staff, our partnership with students entails providing opportunities for them to learn and grow, both in and out of the classroom. We challenge students to do their best, while also providing services for them when they need assistance. We also offer personal encouragement and guidance along the way.

Likewise, your role is to provide as much support and encouragement for your student as you can. College is an exciting experience, and you should celebrate the highs along with your student; however, college also should be challenging, and even the most talented and motivated students will encounter bumps along the road.

When these bumps occur, remind your student that they have the ability and strength to overcome them. Believe me, your encouragement will be invaluable.

Finally, we want to partner with family members to be a resource to you in providing this support and encouragement for your student. Students frequently will turn to you for help and guidance, and we want to keep you informed about the services and resources available to them. Of course, if you ever have any questions or concerns about your student’s experience, please feel free to contact the Office of Parent Engagement or my office.

Again, welcome to the Chapman Family, and I look forward to seeing you on campus.

Sincerely,

Jerry Price, Ph.D.
Vice President for Student Affairs and Dean of Students
WELCOME FROM THE VICE PRESIDENT OF DIVERSITY, EQUITY AND INCLUSION

Chapman University is a special place, and I could not be more thrilled to welcome your family to ours. Let me offer congratulations to each family, for providing the love, support and motivation to get your students to this point in their educational journey.

Though many students will begin college as total strangers, we encourage them to enter with optimism, share their unique stories, put in the hard work and in due time, they will graduate and depart as lifelong friends.

The doors of opportunity are well within reach for your student. The information contained within this booklet is a key to unlocking the doors. Please take the time to make sure your family is familiar with the contents. Encourage your student to ask questions, seek out opportunities and practice independence. This is an opportunity to learn from both success and failure because there is value in both. There are many dedicated people at Chapman that will provide clarity and support, so use all the resources we offer.

At Chapman, we prepare students to enter a world that is rapidly changing and globally interconnected. We strongly believe that diversity of thought and diversity in lived experiences makes for a culturally dynamic college experience. We ask that you encourage your student to branch out and meet new people, explore new concepts in the classroom, attend lectures and events that expand both their vocabulary and their ability to think critically.

A college campus is a microcosm of the world we live in and learning how to navigate this complex world is part of the growth process. Our dedicated faculty and engaged staff are committed to providing a transformative learning environment as students evolve into scholars and ultimately, leaders. I would be remiss if I did not offer one final recommendation: tell your student to have fun. Chapman is special because you chose us. Enjoy this journey!

At Chapman, we aim to inspire achievement. We welcome you to the family.

Reg Chhen Stewart, Ph.D.
Vice President of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

THE BEGINNING

Your student is beginning an exciting journey at Chapman, and you are a part of the experience, too. You will share the successes and challenges just as vividly as your student. Of course, no one can ensure that the first year at college will be easy for you or your student, but this insight may help.

THE FIRST YEAR
For the first year student, transitioning from high school to a diverse community of young adults presents a unique opportunity for growth and change. Students can shed their high school personas and embrace their independence. Here they will be able to set their own rules, discover interests they may never have known they had and expose themselves to new people and ideas. Students will be fully immersed in a community that will help shape them as individuals and send them into the world as global citizens.

TRANSITIONAL PHASE
College is a time for exploration with an end result that is unpredictable. Support your student through this time of discovery. The student you drop off at orientation may not be the same person who comes home at winter break. Recognize those changes. As a partner through this phase, you play an important role to your student. In the first few weeks, your student may experience some feelings of homesickness. Even the most adjusted student may at times feel homesick or experience doubts. Keep this in mind if you receive a stressed out phone call and really listen to your student’s concerns. Most often, the true purpose of a phone call is to vent frustrations and fears, so the student feels heard and understood. Once this is accomplished, students usually feel relieved and ready to move forward. However, for parents, a distressed phone call is often the beginning of a long night of worry, only to find out with the next day’s call that from the student’s point of view, everything is fine.

Understanding what is truly happening will involve patience and careful listening on your part. While every student is different, there are stages that most students experience during college. Being prepared may help you distinguish between a problem and a crisis.

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT PRIVACY AND CONFIDENTIALITY

FAMILY EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS AND PRIVACY ACT (FERPA)

Chapman University is committed to the protection and confidentiality of students’ educational records. The university adheres closely to the guidelines established by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) – federal legislation established to regulate access and maintenance of student educational records. Educational records for the most part include, with certain exceptions, all records maintained in any medium that can identify the student, including transcripts.

It is important for families of students to note that all rights to access educational records move to the student when he or she reaches the age of 18 or attends a school beyond the high school level; parents, spouses and significant others have no inherent right to access student educational records. In accordance with regulations contained within FERPA, the university will disclose information from the educational records of a student to designated parties (such as parents and family members), provided the university has written consent by the student on file.

FERPA affords students certain rights with respect to their education records, including the right to inspect their education records, request an amendment of the records that the student believes are inaccurate, and the right to control disclosures of their records except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent.

To learn more about FERPA at Chapman University, contact:

Office of the University Registrar
(714) 997-6701
registrar@chapman.edu

MEDICAL RECORDS ACCESS AND PRIVACY IN CALIFORNIA

According to California law, disclosure of medical records to third parties is prohibited without consent of the patient (California Civil Code 56 et seq.). This would affect parents and families of Chapman students if a family member were to call the university requesting medical information about a student or to inquire about a student’s purpose for visiting Student Health Services or Student Psychological Counseling Services. Consequently, a student must give written permission for a campus health care provider to furnish their medical information to any third party.

If you have further questions regarding medical records access and privacy, contact Student Health Services at (714) 997-6851.
WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT CAMPUS SAFETY

The mission of the Chapman University Department of Public Safety is to facilitate a safe environment conducive to learning, working and personal growth through the development of partnerships with all campus community members.

The Public Safety Department conducts 24-hour patrol of the university using automobile, foot and bicycle patrol methods.

Tips From Public Safety:
• Always lock your doors.

The Panther Guardian app is an effective way for students, staff, and faculty to communicate with Public Safety via a smart phone.

Panther Alert
In the event of an emergency on campus the Panther Alert system will notify your student through a text message or call. Students are automatically included on the distribution list, but for parents to be included, students must add parent information on the emergency contact form in the Panther Alert System. Information about Panther Alerts will also be posted online at www.Chapman.edu/emergency/alert.aspx

Crime Alert Bulletins
If a crime occurs on or near campus that may impact the community, notification will be sent out in the form of a Crime Alert Bulletin. These bulletins include details as to the crime in question, the location and possible suspects. They can be found at blogs.Chapman.edu/public-safety.

PROMOTING ACADEMIC SUCCESS FOR YOUR STUDENT

It takes time to adjust to increased academic demands. Students may be surprised by the expectations and quantity of work required in college courses. Even the brightest and best high school student may find the adjustment to college academic expectations a challenge. As a parent or family member, you know your student’s strengths and limitations, and you are in the best position to encourage and support his or her positive behaviors.

WHAT CAN YOUR STUDENT DO TO ACHIEVE ACADEMIC SUCCESS?

• Go to class
  The semester goes by quickly and missing a class could mean missing something crucial.

• Use a planner/calendar
  Planners help students keep track of and stay on top of assignments, campus activities and other daily priorities.

• Visit professor’s office hours
  Our professors are here for your students, and student success is their priority. All faculty members make themselves available outside the classroom.

• Utilize academic and faculty advisors
  Your student’s academic advisor is a resource for general education information, degree requirements and academic policies. The faculty advisor can provide more insight on a specific program and/or major. For students who enter undeclared, the Academic Advising Center will serve as their hub before they declare a major and are assigned a faculty advisor. Contact information for their advisor can be found at Chapman.edu/students/academic resources/advising or by calling (714) 744-7959.

• Get a tutor
  Tackle potential issues before grades start to fall by encouraging your student to visit the Tutoring, Learning and Testing Center.

• Practice study habits
  Establishing good study habits is important. There are many places on campus that provide effective learning space. Study groups with peers can also be effective and should be encouraged.

WHAT CAN PARENTS AND FAMILIES DO?

• Listen to your student’s feelings about his or her classes and graded work.
• Remember that students tend to mirror your level of anxiety. Calmness is contagious.
• Empathize with your student’s anxiety about their workload.
• Reassure your student that you know they are capable of handling their work.
• Encourage your student to take advantage of professor’s office hours.
TIPS FOR PARENTS OF RESIDENTIAL STUDENTS

A major change for first year students is adjusting to a new living situation. Moving to a college campus and living without daily parental check-in is a transition for both students and parents. Below are tips that will help you and your student ease into this transition.

BEFORE FRESHMAN MOVE-IN (TUESDAY, AUGUST 23)

ENCOURAGE YOUR STUDENT TO CONTACT THEIR ROOMMATE(S)
Students will receive room assignment information over the summer from the Office of Housing and Residence Life. Coordinating with roommates prior to move-in will help determine who will be bringing specific items to the room (e.g. TVs, printers, game systems, etc.) and avoid duplication of supplies. Roommates may want to look into renting or purchasing a microfridge for the year. This compact refrigerator/freezer/microwave oven combo unit meets all size, safety and electrical requirements and is the only approved device that allows students to have a microwave in their room. Details are available at affordableinstall.com

ONCE THE SEMESTER BEGINS

AVOID ASKING YOUR STUDENT IF HE/SHE IS HOMESICK
The first few days and weeks of school are activity-packed and the challenge of meeting new people and adjusting to new situations may take a majority of your student’s time and concentration. So, unless they’re reminded of it (by a well-meaning parent or family member), they’ll probably be able to escape the initial loneliness and frustration of homesickness. And even if they don’t tell you during those first few weeks that they miss you – they do. Homesickness is normal.

VISIT OCCASIONALLY
Visits by parents and families (especially accompanied dinners out together, and fun new adventures) are often something that new students are reluctant to admit liking, but appreciate greatly. Visiting your student gives them an opportunity to share some of the important aspects of their new world (i.e. friends, activities, etc.). The Chapman Family Homecoming Celebration (Friday, September 30 and Saturday, October 1, 2022) is the perfect opportunity to visit for the first time. Students are settled in by this point and parents can get a realistic feel for how everything is going.

TRUST YOUR STUDENT
As one college student recalls: “One of the most important things my mom wrote to me in my four years at college was ‘I love you and want for you all the things that make you the happiest. I guess you, not I, are the one who knows best what those things are.’”

“Friends you make will be life-long treasures so treat them very well.”
- Lynn Huston
TIPS FOR PARENTS OF COMMUTER STUDENTS

“Commuter student” is often synonymous with “living at home.” Sometimes this is the case, but there are also students who travel from other locations just to have a place of their own. Here are some things to keep in mind for all commuter students:

IF YOUR STUDENT LIVES AT HOME, DISCUSS EXPECTATIONS.

Commuter students may be on campus quite late to attend review sessions or to complete homework and class projects in small groups. Discuss how you want your student to communicate with you if he or she plans on staying in the residence halls with a friend or will be on campus late into the night to work on a project.

DON’T BE OFFENDED IF YOUR STUDENT IS SPENDING LESS TIME AT HOME.

There are many things going on in a family environment (siblings, TV, family time, etc.) that may be a distraction to your student. Spending extended amounts of time on campus is entirely normal. Your student has access to many resources on campus that they do not have at home. Having a conversation about family involvement and household responsibilities before your student starts classes will help set up your expectations.

ENCOURAGE CAMPUS INVOLVEMENT.

Many parents and family worry about their commuter student getting the full college experience. By getting involved on campus, students will immerse themselves in the campus culture which will help them avoid the fear of missing out. It’s proven that students are more successful when they are involved and invested in their campus.

“Student involvement in the campus community is vital to a successful college life.”

-National Survey of Student Engagement

SUPPORT THE CHAPMAN FUND

Chapman University is devoted to delivering the highest quality of education to our students. We accomplish this by seeking the finest faculty, creating world-class academic facilities, fostering uniquely collaborative programs and welcoming remarkable individuals from around the world.

Such uncompromising dedication to excellence requires a robust financial foundation. The Chapman Fund keeps the university’s extraordinary vision moving forward by supporting a broad array of needs. The unrestricted nature of the fund affords Chapman leadership the flexibility to embrace opportunities in four important areas:

SCHOLARSHIPS: Scholarships are a critical piece of the Chapman Fund. Scholarships make an impact on students’ lives, inspiring greatness and propelling them to become leaders in tomorrow’s world. Each year Chapman invests more than $200 million in scholarships, grants and loans for academically promising merit-based and need-based undergraduate students.

FACULTY EXCELLENCE: The Chapman Fund encourages excellence among faculty by providing resources for student/faculty research, curriculum development and other programs that advance the mission of the university.

STUDENT ENRICHMENT: To develop inquiring and ethical global citizens, Chapman encourages students to explore beyond the boundaries of campus. The Chapman Fund provides support for faculty-guided student travel and extended research opportunities.

EMERGING OPPORTUNITIES: Unrestricted giving to the Chapman Fund empowers university leadership to embrace new ideas and emerging opportunities and address the university’s most pressing needs as they arise.
