Chapman Swag Winner
Congratulations to Raymond Gennawey (2L) for winning last Tuesday’s Swag Trivia game. If you would like a chance to win some Chapman Law swag, "like us" on Facebook and be the first student to successfully answer the Tuesday Swag Trivia question! Last week’s question was:

Q: One of the most important cases in the area of attorney-client privilege in California is Wells Fargo Bank v. Superior Court (Boltwood), 22 Cal. 4th 201, 990 P.2d 591, 91 Cal. Rptr. 2d 716 (2000), where one adult beneficiary of a deceased trustor claimed that Wells Fargo Bank and the decedent’s wife, as co-trustee, negligently allowed assets of the estate to be lost. The case established that a trust beneficiary has no right to obtain privileged communications between a trustee and the trustee’s attorneys, even where the beneficiary alleges the trustee was negligent. Before the case got to the Supreme Court, the co-trustee settled and was able to keep the family home, and other assets left to her. What Chapman Law Professor represented the wife co-trustee?
A: Professor Mario Mainero

Saturday, February 9

Students are Invited to Attend Table Talk at Public Interest/Public Sector Career Day at UCLA Law – February 9 from 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Even if you did not bid for an interview, you are still welcome to attend! This event attracts over 100 employers, including non-profit public interest organizations, government agencies, and public interest law firms. Last year representatives from 106 different organizations and agencies were present.

Table Talk: The Table Talk portion of the day allows you to informally meet with various employers who will be staffing information tables, distributing literature about their organization/recruiting model, and collecting resumes. We recommend that you come in the morning, if possible, to participate in Table Talk as in the past we have seen that some employers may leave prior to 5:00 p.m... We highly recommend that you bring resumes to share with the employers you meet.
