

Holding on to a Miracle
Audrey Hess, Grade 10

Survivor: Bluma Goldberg

At the age of fifteen, Bluma Goldberg along with her sister, was separated from her family. They survived a series of concentration camps. In their final camp, trees burning all around, a nameless American from the Red Cross came to their rescue. To Goldberg, it felt like seeing God. During nights spent caring for her sister, who was extremely sick, Goldberg had whispered “be strong, maybe a miracle will happen, that we will survive”. Goldberg’s story is one of perseverance and courage in the face of oppression, and her hope should inspire all who hear it today.
