

Still, He Sang

Seylah Bae, grade 10

El Dorado High School, Placentia, CA

Teacher: Christine Williams

Survivor Testimony: Robert Clary

Robert Clary's story unfolds in a place designed to erase voice; yet through hope, his voice grew louder. While in a concentration camp, Clary turned to singing to hold onto hope. "When I sang, I forgot where I was," he recalled. Each note lifted not only his own spirit, but those around him. He brought color back into their lives.

Golden music notes float, shifting into the Hebrew word for "hope," symbolizing his light. Clary persevered and eventually rebuilt his life into one of storytelling as an actor. His passion brought light to even more people. This inspires me to use my talents to bring joy to others and teaches me that even the simplest actions can provide hope to many.

