Survivor Testimony: Rose Toren

After escaping a labor camp, Rose Toren went into hiding as a Polish Christian. This painting depicts Rose shunning her younger self. Once a proud Jewish girl, she denied her heritage to survive the hatred that had invaded her homeland. The street light shining represents Rose's hope for a better tomorrow. Her strength and bravery resonate a powerful message: by understanding and persevering through the pain of the past, this generation can strive for a safer, more tolerance future.
