V. Open Forum
a. Saba Amid: Residence life has been holding raffles and those who win will have the opportunity to mingle with their RA on a personal level. I think SGA should have something like that where we hold an event that is a lot less formal that can allow students to feel comfortable approaching us.
b. Matthew Ghan: FISH has been working with the cafeteria for food for Passover.
   They are having special cooks to come into the kitchens here and prepare the food to make sure it is isn’t cross-contaminated. If students are really interested then it can possibly be continued for the years to come.
c. Mitchell Rosenberg: As many of you already know, on Wednesday is the national walkout at 10am regarding gun control and safety. The administration will be emailing professors letting them know the situation and strongly encourage not to punish students who choose to participate in the walk out. However, it is left to the faculty’s discretion.
