

Interdisciplinary Minor in RELIGIOUS STUDIES

The Religious Studies minor introduces students to the diverse cultures and religious traditions of the world, past and present, and to a global range of human understandings of life's meaning and purpose.

For more information, please contact:

Professor Julye Bidmead

bidmead@chapman.edu

or, contact your Academic Advisor.

The Religious Studies minor is designed to address some of the most compelling issues in human life and to foster global citizenship through interreligious literacy and an interdisciplinary understanding of the power and impact of the world's religious traditions. Courses explore the intersections between religion and politics, art, literature, mythology, philosophy, and gender studies.

LEARN MORE ABOUT THIS MINOR HERE!

CHAPMAN UNIVERSITY

Wilkinson College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences