About the Council

The Italian Studies Council is a philanthropic group whose goal is to bridge higher learning in Italian Studies with the possibilities and needs of the community locally and abroad. The Council aims to support Italian Studies at Chapman and raise students’ awareness regarding the potential applications of their studies in various areas of cultural, artistic, and business entrepreneurship.

The Council is open to all Italophiles, regardless of heritage, from the community at large, Chapman University’s alumni, and currently enrolled students of Italian.

Gifts are welcome and tax-deductible. Checks should be sent to Dr. Pacchioni’s attention and be made payable to Chapman University indicating “Italian Studies Program” in the memo line.
